10 PM EDITION

BOSTON AMERICAN

VOL. 9—No. 126. BOSTON, THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1912. Registered in U. S. Patent Office. PRICE ONE CENT.

While District Attorney Pelletier and the Suffolk Grand Jury were questioning James L. Richards of the Elevated directorate and other officials and employes of the road today at the Suffolk courthouse about alleged perjury and intimidation by the officials, Governor Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald at the State House were ready to receive the answer of President Bancroft to the strikers' offer of settlement.

When the conference between the Governor, Mayor and Elevated officials adjourned at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the understanding was that the Elevated would have an answer ready by 2 o'clock this afternoon.

President Bancroft, Directors Richards and Prendergast and Counsel F. E. Snow went to the State House at 2 o'clock to give the Elevated's answer to the Governor and Mayor.

RICHARDS QUESTIONED 47 MINUTES.

James L. Richards, one of the most influential men in Elevated affairs, was questioned before the Grand Jury for forty-seven minutes.

President Bancroft is to be heard by the Grand Jury, but there was no intention of hurting the summons for President Bancroft to the Grand Jury room interfere with his appointments with the Governor on the settlement question. Assistant District Attorney McInnes said this noon:

"If we are ready for President Bancroft later this afternoon we shall not call him if he is conferring with the Governor. We don't wish to interfere with that appointment. We are keeping in touch with him and may have him come direct from the State House to the courthouse, however."

The second witness before the grand jury was Clarence E. Learned, head of the Hewitt's secret service department, and one of the men who was hustled to the courthouse yesterday by automobile when it was learned that an officer was after him with a capias for tardiness in reporting as a witness.

The third witness was Superintendent Wilkins of Division 3, who arrived at the courthouse yesterday, while capiases were being sought by the district attorney.

Both Mr. Learned and Superintendent Wilkins testified yesterday, but were called into the grand jury room again today with their official records.

The following men were in the anteroom waiting to be called as the session: Charles Stock, Division 1; Motorman O'Grady and Flinn of Division 9; James May, Division 2; Patrick Milligan, Division 9; William Warren, an inspector of Division 2; John Doyle, of Division 1;

FRESNO TALKS OF 'BROTHER'

Fresno Dan, recognized by the Russell family as the long-lost Daniel Blake Russell, today declared on the witness stand at Cambridge at the second hearing of the suit of his rival, Dakota Dan, the original claimant for the estate, that he signed a $150,000 mortgage on the Russell estate without knowing what he signed.

He said that William C. Russell, to whom he referred as "my brother" for the first time since the hearing opened, took him to the lawyer's office where he signed the mortgage.

It was learned today that four new witnesses have been discovered who will come forward to testify that Dakota Dan was known as Daniel Blake Russell years ago in North Dakota. These men hold documents signed by Dakota Dan as Daniel Blake Russell, and made out years before there had been any talk anywhere of a contest for the Russell estate.

These new witnesses were located by State Senator Leslie A. Simpson of Dickenson, N. D.

TO REVEAL ALL NAMES IN PLOT

NEW YORK, July 25.—Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty announced at noon today that William Shapiro, the chauffeur who drove the automobile which carried the assassins to and from the Hotel Metropole for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, had turned State's evidence and would make a full confession this afternoon in which he would name every man who rode in the car and tell every fact that he knew in connection with the killing.

Before this announcement was made Jolin Reisler, also "John the Barber," who is under arrest under a perjury charge, furnished District Attorney Whitman with an affidavit in which he swore that he saw Louis ("Bridgy") Webber running away from the Hotel Metropole just after Rosenthal was killed.

Jacob Rosenzweig, known as "Jack Rose," and said to have been manager for the murder of Rosenthal, who was assassinated just before he was due to supply proof of police corruption, was ready to testify today before Coroner Feinberg, as were Louis Libby and William Shapiro, the two chauffeurs who owned the "murder" automobile, confessedly hired by Rose on the night of the tragedy.

Harry Vallon was also taken into Coroner Feinberg's court, but the hearing of all four men went over until Monday at 10 a. m. upon request of District Attorney Whitman, who asked for the postponement on the ground that new evidence and new witnesses are being uncovered so fast that he has been unable yet to give proper attention to the cases against the four men.

A dozen gamblers, men who had paid tribute to the police for many years, were called today to testify before the Grand Jury and furnish the District Attorney with proof of police corruption. The names of those men were given to the District Attorney by Rosenthal, Mrs. Rosenthal and two other persons closely identified with the gambling set.

Not only are these men expected to tell how and when tribute was paid to the police but also to say what bigger men among the political set had a hand in directing the affairs of the underworld. The District Attorney already had promises from some of the gamblers that they would tell the entire truth.

D. O. SODER, DRIVER OF DEATH AUTO, WHO WAS FINED $100

David O. Soder, a sophomore at Williston Seminary, and who was driving the automobile of Mrs. Angie Brown, a wealthy widow of Brockton, on July 15, when it struck and killed Miss Ella A. Hennessey at West Bridgewater and then drove away, today paid a fine of $100 in the Brockton Police Court and was freed.

He was not charged, as was expected, with manslaughter, but with "wilfully leaving a person that he had injured." He left the girl lying in the street near Pine Hill cemetery. The police searched all night for the automobile, but never found it, but who killed the girl until Soder walked into the Brockton police headquarters and gave himself up.

Mrs. Brown was not in the car at the time of the accident. Miss Sena Bergtund of Brockton was riding with Soder. She is a pretty girl, and today in court before Judge Warren A. Reed, she testified that the lamps on the automobile were lighted at the time the car struck the Hennessey girl.

Soder pleaded guilty. But a few witnesses appeared for him. No one appeared against him.

Judge Reed made no comment when he turned the papers over to the clerk imposing a fine of $100.

Soder paid his fine and with Miss Bergtund left the court house without any statement.

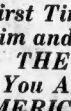

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF WOMAN LODGER

Miss Mary White, thirty-five, died suddenly early today in her room at the lodging house at No. 194 Harrison avenue, under mysterious circumstances. The woman was discovered on the floor of her room after strange noises had awakened John Towle, another lodger in the house. Towle found the woman's door ajar. Miss White was unconscious, lying face downward. It was believed that she had been overcome when she entered her room last night, possibly with apoplexy. The body was removed to the City Hospital morgue. Medical Examiner Watters will perform an autopsy.

American Story Brings Names for Mayor's New Auto

Names proposed for Mayor's auto:

FLYING FITZ.
BOSTON'S BEST.
WINNER OF BOSTON.
ROYAL AMERICAN VICTOR.

The article in the AMERICAN last night, which said Mayor Fitzgerald wished suggestions for a suitable name for the new touring car supplied him by the city, brought immediate results today in the shape of four suggestions in the first mail. The mail was opened by Colonel "Dick" Field, the Mayor's personal secretary. Colonel Field was deeply impressed with the AMERICAN as a get-results-quick advertising medium.

Mrs. W. H. Downey of No. 273A Dudley street, Roxbury, wrote:

"I would suggest the name 'The Flying Fitz.'"

Michael J. Curley of No. 11 Roach street, wrote:

"In reading the AMERICAN tonight I see Your Honor wishes a name for your new auto. I would suggest that you call your touring car the 'Royal American Victor.'"

Master J. Earle Curtis, of No. 1 Russell street, Charlestown, sent in this:

"In answer to your ad. in tonight's AMERICAN for a suitable name for your new car, allow me to suggest, with compliment to yourself, that it be christened 'Boston's Best.'"

Nicholas Kuceo, No. 33 Chelsea street, East Boston, offered this:

"I think a good name for the new auto would be 'Winner of Boston.'"

Colonel Field expects about 6,345,982 additional letters in the next few days.

The will of Amory Appleton Lawrence, brother of Bishop Lawrence and one of the best known business men in Boston, was offered for probate today and allowed by Judge George in the Suffolk Probate Court. The estate, valued at $3,500,000, is left to the widow, Mrs. Laura Amory Pegram Lawrence, his two sons, Amos A. and John Silsbee Lawrence, and to his daughter, Mrs. Edith L. Coolidge. The sons and the son-in-law, Harold J. Coolidge, are named as executors, and $100 a piece to brothers and sisters-in-law of the dead man are to get $1,000 each, and nephews and nieces $500 each, to purchase personal memories of himself. His son John received $50,000 to be applied as explained in a private letter. A codicil made Charles H. Amory of Milton co-executor with the sons.

BANCROFT IS HURLED FROM AUTO

The carriage containing Oliver Ames, the millionaire and stockholder in the Elevated, was wrecked at the entrance to the State House grounds today by an auto containing President William A. Bancroft, James L. Richards, James M. Prendergast, directors, and F. E. Snow, counsel for the Elevated, who were hurrying for a conference with Governor Foss on the Elevated strike situation.

All five men were thrown to the ground, but no one was hurt.

The auto was going at a good rate up Mount Vernon street and was just turning into the archway when the Ames carriage came around the corner.

The rear wheels of the carriage were knocked off and the vehicle was turned on its side. The front part of the auto was damaged by the collision.

Mr. Ames picked himself up and found himself face to face with President Bancroft, who was brushing the dirt from his clothes.

The accident occurred in such a manner that neither the driver of the carriage nor the chauffeur was blamed.

L STRIKE-BREAKER IS GIVEN A MONTH ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Charles Marsters, twenty-three, a strike-breaking conductor in the employ of the Elevated, was sentenced to serve a month in the House of Correction by Judge Sullivan in the Dorchester District Court, today, on a charge of assaulting G. Wills Clark, son of Patrolman Lyman H. Clark of Neponset. Marsters was represented by Attorney A. Pfannkuk, counsel for the Elevated.

Young Clark testified the conductor had approached him last Sunday and asked him if he wasn't one of the crowd that had started an attack on the conductor several days before. Clark denied this. Clark said that Marsters struck him in the face, knocking him down.

Attorney Pfannkuk entered an appeal for Marsters, who was held in $200. Marsters lives at No. 1520 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester.

NEWTON MAN, CLAD IN PAJAMAS, FOUND DEAD NEAR TRACKS

SPRINGFIELD, July 25.—The body of Curtis Nichols, of West Newton, a traveling salesman for a Hopedale concern, was found near the Boston & Albany tracks at the West Springfield tracks early today. The body was clad in pajamas. An investigation led to the belief that Nichols committed suicide by climbing out of the window of the Boston & Albany express train which left the South station at 11:35 last night.

At Albany the berth which had been taken by Nichols was found empty, save for the man's clothing and watch. The window had been raised and the screen broken away.

The police said they had no suspicion of foul play. The train on which Nichols had been a passenger left this city at 2:10 this morning. The body was found soon afterwards. Nichols was employed by C. F. Roper of Hopedale.

JAPAN'S EMPEROR HAS TURN FOR WORSE

TOKIO, July 25.—There was a change for the worse in the condition of Emperor Mutsuhito today. His fever increased considerably, according to the bulletin issued by the court physicians. Persistent rumors that the Mikado had died and that the government was concealing his death were circulated during the morning, but these were denied by Dr. Mori. This afternoon the patient's high fever has slowly worn down his strong constitution, and court attendants declare today that the end was only a matter of days. The Mikado is delirious.

GIVE NOTICE OF BROWN CONTEST

The hearing on the contest over the million dollar estate of the late Samuel Newman Brown, in which the son and the second wife of the testator are at odds, will come early in September. Today was the date for the will to be offered for probate.

But Sherman L. Whipple of Whipple, Sears & Ogden, representing the son, Harold H. Brown, who was cut off with $1,000; and Walter I. Badger, representing the widow, Mrs. Charlotte Bradford Brown, who received the bulk of the estate, appeared before Judge George in the Suffolk Probate Court today and gave the first formal notice that a contest is on. They asked that an early date be set for a hearing on the contest which the son is offering to the will.

Hearing in September.

Judge George said a hearing would be had early in September. It is understood that the son will claim that undue influence was exercised on the aged testator.

Rich There, but Fail to Help Boston Get Rid of Newport House

NEWPORT, R. I., July 25.—Society people looked on but refused to bid at the attempt today on the part of the city of Boston to sell at public auction the fine old Parkman house on Bellevue avenue in this city. The house was acquired by George F. Parkman in 1883 and was a portion of the Parkman bequest to Boston. There was not interest enough to make the sale a success, however.

John C. Riley was the auctioneer and the bidding was run up from $25,000 to $35,000 by "straw" bidders. Finally the house was knocked down to Francis Clair, who said he was bidding for the city of Boston. Auctioneer Riley declared it was no sale. Several prominent members of the Summer colony were present, including Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. C. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton Winthrop, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gambrell and Mrs. Charles A. Child.

OPEN WATER MAIN TO SPECTACLE ISLAND

For the first time in its history, Spectacle Island, in Boston harbor, is being supplied with city water, the new main from South Boston being opened today. To lay the pipe from the mainland in South Boston cost $17,000, and when the first water was drawn today the workmen engaged on the new garbage station at the island celebrated the event by loud cheering. It is expected that the new station will be ready for occupancy by October 1.

It was a getaway day for both the Cleveland and the Red Sox at Fenway Park this afternoon. The Red Sox are especially anxious to land today's battle, as they are a little bit sore at the brand of ball they played yesterday, and want to show the fans that they are not in a slump.

Washington plays a double-header today, and the Red Sox saw a chance to gain in the percentage column and make up for the half game they were put back yesterday.

Pitcher Wagner and Jake Stahl had an off day yesterday, but things appeared to be different today by the way they slammed the ball around in practice.

The Cleveland team is putting up a hard fight in this series, and the Red Sox are fully aware that they have to play hard ball in order to win.

FRESNO CALLED "STAMMERING DAN" BY UNCLE

CLAIMANT TO RUSSELL WEALTH TELLS UNCLE'S PET NAME FOR HIM AS A BOY.

By CLEMENT L. POLLOCK.

The bald-headed man with stubby gray beard who went to sleep yesterday in court was the first person at the Russell will hearing today. He sauntered in and dropped into a rear seat. Just why a man goes to court to take a nap I can't figure out.

The friends of Dakota Dan are certainly early birds. The Dakota Dan box was filled before 9:30 o'clock. Scattered about the court room I noticed a number of new faces and new hats. There is a wealth of pale and pink roses in the feminine headgear toady. The beautiful sunshiny cool weather brought out an unusually large crowd today. They are mostly from Melrose and they chat with one another as though they were participating in a church social.

Sheriff Fairbairn dropped in shortly before court opened. He looked over the audience.

"This is a nice audience," he said, "and very orderly."

"I don't think there will be any rioting," I remarked.

"No," said the sheriff, "it has not been necessary to furnish a court officer. I told Mr. Pevey he could have one if he wanted him."

Scharton Absent.

Mr. Scharton was not in court today. Mr. McNally looked after Dakota Dan's interests. Mr. Scharton was called to New York where he is counsel in a divorce case.

Scharton's motion in the Supreme Court in Boston asking that Master Pevey be removed on the ground that he was prejudiced comes up tomorrow morning. Should Sharton not be back in time, McNally will ask for an adjournment of an hour or so of the case tomorrow.

Fresno Dan and Dakota Dan met face to face in the corridor of the courthouse before the hearing was resumed today. They took no notice of each other. Dakota Dan escorted two women into the courtroom.

"Who are they?" he was asked.

"Never mind," he replied with a smile, "I don't remember."

Fresno Dan resumed the stand today. Robert Nason continued his cross-examination. Mr. Nason asked Fresno Dan to make a rapid sketch of the way he went to Bogle's Crossing and the day he left home.

Fresno Dan Sketches.

The witness took a pen and piece of paper and made a drawing. He stood on the witness stand leaning over the shelf in front and made the drawing without hesitation.

Ferdinand B. Almy, whose examination began yesterday and was halted, was in the courtroom. He sat at the small table with Eugene C. Upton and William Odlin. Mr. Almy has taken notes steadily every day since the hearing began, when he was not on the stand.

"You have marked something 'trail to Russell.' What do you mean by that?"

"That was woods."

"And did your father's house stand there? Was the pathway you have marked low or high?"

"It was low and wet."

"Was there a well beside the pathway?"

"Yes."

"You said something about a ditch Clancy worked on?"

"Yes, it was near Washington street."

"There were minor ditches, weren't there?"

"I don't remember how many there were."

"You said the depot was on the westerly side of the track?"

"Yes."

"It is on the same side now, isn't it?"

"Yes, but not at the same spot."

"When you worked at Mr. Hetherston's, where was it?"

"On Broad street."

"Was it a large store?"

"Small."

Remembers Mitchell.

"Where were the offices of the Common Sense Fertilizer Company?"

"On Congress street. I have read the number was 48."

"How many rooms were there?"

"Two rooms and another small one occupied by Mr. Brown."

Fresno Dan recalled the names of half a dozen men who worked for the fertilizer company. He could not remember one name.

"Was that name Mitchell?" blandly inquired Mr. Nason.

"Yes, it was Mitchell," readily replied Fresno Dan, and the audience giggled.

The witness said the office was on the second floor.

"Was there a notice in the window at your office?"

"Yes."

"What was it?"

"Mr. White used to smile at some girls and a notice was put up suggesting that the smile be discontinued."

"Do you remember a druggist in Melrose named Larribee?"

"Yes."

"Where was his store?"

"As near as I can remember, it was about the same place it is now."

"Did a man speak to you since the trial started who said his name was Parker?"

"Yes."

"Do you recall a Dr. Parker in Melrose?"

"No."

"Your Uncle Tom cut his hand, didnt he?"

"Yes."

"What was the name of the doctor who treated him?"

"I don't remember."

Called Him Stammerer.

"You have ben asked about Spinney and a dog—what did Spinney some times call you?"

"Do you mean a nickname?"

"Yes."

"He called me 'Stammering Dan.'"

"Did you and your father go fishing at Nahant?"

"Yes, we went in a schooner—my father, my brother and, I think, Uncle Thomas were along."

"Was Mr. Alden along?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you know a Mr. Alden?"

"I remember that name."

"Do you remember in connection with that trip anything about a catfish?"

"Yes, I remember catching a very large catfish."

Fresno Dan said he last saw the two affidavits he had made in Lawyer Cartwright's office in California. These affiadvits were as to the identity of Fresno Dan.

"How much money from any source had you when you started peddling?"

"I didn't have more than $12."

"What work did you do before that?"

"Husked corn."

"Did you know your father peddled between Boston and Salem when he started out in life?"

"I saw something about it in a newspaper."

Called on Mrs. Avery.

Fresno Dan was asked about his call on Mrs. Avery in Roxbury with Mr. Cartwright.

"Did you go on a drive?"

"We rode back to Boston in an automobile."

"You and Mrs. Avery sat together in the rear seat and talked?"

"Yes."

"What about?"

"I can't remember now."

Mrs. Avery was originally Bertha Yorke and Fresno Dan said he knew her in Melrose and was supposed to be best man when she was married.

"Did you ever see Mrs. Avery's picture in a newspaper?"

"Yes, in Minneapolis about three years after I left home."

"What was her name then?"

"It must have been Grant."

Fresno Dan produced the newspaper in which he got the first idea of coming to Melrose and getting into the fight. He pointed out the article to Mr. Nason who read it through to himself.

Mr. Nason then read the article, which was a dispatch dated February, 1910, and recited that no matter how the case came out that criminal action would be warranted. The amount of the estate was placed at $750,000 and an estimation of the cost of the trial was placed at $200,000.

"You made yourself known after reading that so that an injustice might not be done?" asked Nason.

"Yes."

"Was that the full reason?"

"Yes, it was."

Mrs. Avery's Letter.

Fresno Dan handed Mr. Nason a letter he received from Mrs. Avery. Nason had a hard time making the letter out. Once he appealed to Mr. Upton to help him out. The letter in substance was:

Springfield, Mo., May 23, 1912.

Dear Cousin Dannie—I will be pleased to see you in Minnesota. I expect to leave soon for our cabin in the wilderness. If you are West be sure to write to me. I will meet you. I hope you will come.

We will hail you with joy as we need help in the cabin in the wilderness. Bring your rifles and fishing tackle. You will have a grand time and get rid of your hay fever. Do not fail to come this year. Yours as ever,

BERTHA.

P. S.—Remember to have flannel negligee shirts. We have plenty of sleeping room.

Fresno Dan has been questioned minutely by Scharton about his visit to Mrs. Avery two years ago.

"You went there, didn't you?" inquired Nason, "in response to that letter."

"Yes, partly."

"Was the other reason that you wanted to go West?"

"Yes."

Odd Boat Propeller.

Fresno Dan testified about an apparatus at his home in the barn which could propel a boat. It was about twelve feet long and six feet wide. It was made of wood. Fresno Dan's description was vague. He said he never saw anything like it any other place.

"What did you say to Mr. Park about yourself?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you tell him the date of your leaving home?"

"I don't remember."

Mr. Nason asked Fresno Dan as to many things he was supposed to have told Mr. Clark. But the witness did not remember what he had said. Mr. Cartwright did most of the talking, Fresno Dan said. The facts Mr. Park obtained came mostly from the written statement that Mr. Cartwright had and from oral statements made by Mr. Cartwright.

"You did little talking?"

"Very little."

"What else did you do to show who you were?"

TWO DANS MEET IN CORRIDOR OF COURT HOUSE, BUT PASS ON.

"I showed the scar on my leg."

"Did they ask you to show the scar?"

"Yes."

"Did you show them your bare foot?"

"I can't remember."

Mr. Nason said that at a more fitting time he would have Fresno Dan show scars on his leg and a toe.

"When did your friend Frantz first make arrows?"

"I don't remember."

"How did he make them?"

"I can't say."

"What kind of points had the arrows?"

"As I recall, blunt points."

"They had no feathers on them."

Fresno Dan was asked about meeting George and Charles Storey in Mr. Odlin's office. The witness said he could not recall much that took place at the interview.

"Charles asked me if I knew him," said the witness, "and I said that I did not."

"Did you say to Charles after looking at him, 'I give it up?'"

"Yes."

"Did you say, pointing to George, "that gentleman, I remember his face, but I can't recall his name?"

"Yes."

Talked About Owl.

The Storeys asked Fresno Dan about going from one room to another in school and about his examinations, but he said he didn't remember about it.

"Did George ask you where the owl came from in the Russell house?"

"Yes."

"And did you say that you thought your father gave two dollars or one dollar for it, and that he got it from one of the Storeys?"

"Yes, I remember talking about an owl."

"And didn't George say, 'I knocked that owl out of a tree with a pitchfork'?"

"I don't remember anything about the pitchfork."

"Didn't George say, 'Well, you've got me going'?"

"Yes."

Mr. Nason was reading some notes of the interview that the Storeys had with Fresno Dan in Mr. Odlin's office shortly after the Californian came to Boston. Fresno Dan recalled some of the conversation but a great deal of it he could not remember. Mr. Nason disclosed that Fresno Dan's interview with the Storeys was unexpected. He had talked to no one about the Storeys. He said after he looked at the men, Mr. Nason brought out, that George looked like one of the Storeys.

You were asked if you had talked to Levi S. Gould, and you said you had. How soon after your return did you talk to Mr. Gould?"

"A week or ten days."

"How did it come about?"

"A newspaper reporter took me out."

Called on Mr. Gould.

"Where did you see Mr. Gould?"

"In his house in Melrose."

"What did Mr. Gould say?"

"He talked about people."

"What was the substance of what he said?"

"I can't remember."

One thing was apparent about Fresno Dan's memory, he didn't remember any better for Mr. Nason than he did for Mr. Scharton. "If he were ever told to say 'I don't remember,'" remarked one of the reporters, "he's sticking to it consistently."

Mortgage in Court.

The mortgage by which $150,000 was raised on the Russell estate property was brought into court. Fresno Dan identified his signature on the mortgage. He said he wrote the signature in Mr. Upton's office.

"Did you read it before you signed it?"

"No," replied the witness quickly, "I didn't read it.

William C. Russell walked into court shortly before noon.

"Who told you to go to Mr. Upton's office?"

"I think my brother."

"Had you been told the document had been submitted to your counsel, Mr. Odlin, before you saw it?"

"No, I did not know it."

"Were you told why you were going to Mr. Upton's office?"

"No."

Mr. Nason read a portion of the mortgage deed which was given to the City Institution for Savings at Lowell, the property for which is No. 128 Tremont street, Boston. The mortgage was for three years and the interest at 4½ per cent. While Mr. Nason was reading the legal language of the deed, William C. Russell busied himself trying to decipher the notes Mr. Almy had made of the proceedings.

Written out with pen and ink in the deed was Fresno Dan's agreement waiving his right to the property in question for the purpose recited. Fresno Dan declared that he was Daniel Blake Russell and he signed the deed in return for "one dollar and other valuable considerations."

Just what the other valuable considerations were has not yet been disclosed in this remarkable will fight. Fresno Dan has testified on the stand under oath that all he has ever received from the Russell estate totalled to date about $1,200. He received this, he says, at the rate of $10 per week.

The mortgage was dated June 13, 1911.

"Did you ever sign any other legal papers with the exception of this mortgage deed since you came back from the West?" asked Mr. Nason.

"No, I never did," replied Fresno Dan.

This was brought out in an effort to show that Fresno Dan has not signed away any other rights in the Russell estate for a consideration, as was hinted at by the questions of Mr. Scharton.

No Recognition Here.

When Fresno Dan left the witness stand for the luncheon recess, he passed close by William C. Russell, who sat at a small table. William C. Russell closed his eyes until Fresno Dan had passed him. There was no recognition on the part of either.

At the luncheon recess an aged woman named Hughes walked up to Dakota Dan Russell. "I know you," she said, "you used to play croquet in Melrose. Shake hands." Dakota Dan remembered Mrs. Hughes' daughter, Kate. Later Mrs. Hughes shook hands with Fresno Dan. She apparently thought the two Dans were two brothers. She went away happy, declaring she had done her duty.

Mr. Nason again enumerated the affidavits, mortgage deed, letters and postal cards that it is agreed Fresno Dan signed, and asked if he had affixed his signature to anything else.

"No," replied Fresno Dan.

Introduces Letter.

Mr. Nason handed a six-page letter to Fresno Dan and asked him to examine it. There was a clipping from a newspaper with the letter. The letter was written by Fresno Dan and the clipping was from a Fresno newspaper. The letter was dated March 6, 1910, and posted at Fresno. It was sent to William C. Russell at Melrose. The letter was as follows:

Dear Brother and Other Relatives—I don't know what to make of the unfortunate affair in which you are involved. It is unlucky I did not possess money with which to come East. I should be there now, and if I was I should make it interesting for some people.

I thought I would write a letter; then I thought that would be too slow. I am anxious for some action in this case, as I understand it is a criminal case. Because of that I consulted the police, but instead of getting prompt action I have been disappointed and things have dragged slowly. The flood interrupted the mail.

I won't deal now about things in the past. What has taken place in the past cannot be helped. One thing I want distinctly understood: I am not actuated by any selfish motive in this. I have got into this case simply to help you out of it. The notary public wanted to go East with me, but I would not permit it.

There is something besides money in this world. I don't know how you feel about it, but I have only love for you in my heart. I do not care what happens to me, but all I care about is that that lying cur who claims to be me, and others with him, be sent to the penetentiary, where they belong. With love to all, DANIEL B. RUSSELL.

Mr. Nason asked William C. Russell about the letter before he read it. Russell apparently gave his permission that it be read. At a former trial it was brought out that William C. Russell did not receive any of the communications from Fresno Dan.

Was Afraid of "Trick."

"Do you recall using the word 'trick' or 'tricks' in reply to Mr. Scharton's question?"

"Yes."

"How was the word used?"

"In connection with my right of the estate."

"What did you mean by using the word?"

"I meant that I hadn't read the document and I might have been tricked."

"Did you believe you had been tricked?"

"No."

"Have you any reason to believe that your brother tried to trick you?"

"I can't recall any."

"Do you believe now that your brother would try to trick you out of your interest in your father's estate?"

"No."

"Do you believe he has or would attempt anything to the end that you would be deprived of your interest in your father's estate?"

"No," replied Fresno Dan.

Fresno Dan testified last week that as he did not read the mortgage deed before he signed it that anybody so disposed might have inserted a clause into the document that would have made him sign away his right to the Russell inheritance.

"I Don't Remember."

Mr. Nason went back to Fresno Dan's talk with Levi S. Gould in Melrose. Mr. Nason read from a typewritten manuscript asking Fresno Dan as to what was said, but the witness could ot recall much of the conversation.

"Did you tell Gould when you left Melrose?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you say that as you came along you recognized the Masonic Temple?"

"Yes."

"And he asked of what you recalled about the Masonic Temple?"

"Yes, and I told him a man that a man named Jackman had a grocery near there."

"Did you see Jackman's grocery on the day you went to Melrose to see Gould?"

"No."

Fresno Dan said he told Gould about the organ in the Masonic Temple, on which his father used to play.

"Did you say you recalled the cases where the uniforms were kept?"

"Yes."

Recalls School Teacher.

"Did you say you remembered Moulton and a school teacher named Miss Charles, who boarded at the Gould home?"

"Yes."

Fresno Dan also recalled Mr. Houghton and Mr. Dutton in Melrose to Mr. Gould, he said.

"Did you say to Gould that Nathan D. Blake, a brother of your father's partner, lived on the hill at Melrose?"

"Yes."

"Did you tell Gould there was a fence around the Masonic Temple when you left Melrose?"

"I don't remember."

Fresno Dan said he told Gould he remembered a Mr. Burr who had two sons. He also told Gould that he recalled Mr. Morse who was tall and who had a wife who was short.

"Did you say your father called Mr. Morse 'Billie?'"

"Yes."

Fresno Dan said he explained to Gould about the Ravine road and told him about pine and hemlock trees.

Mr. McNally objected to the way Mr. Nason was carrying on the examination.

"He might just as well hand the typewritten report to Fresno Dan and let him read it," said McNally. "He doesn't recollect what took place and is surprised at what Mr. Nason is reading."

Master Pevey said he thought Mr. Nason could go ahead and that he would use his discretion in limiting the length to which he could go.

"If Fresno Dan can't remember these things to Gould, why not call Gould?" asked McNally. "I think Mr. Nason is going too far."

Mr. Nason was allowed to proceed.

"Do you remember you told Gould there was an ice house on Scott Pond and a dwelling there?"

"Yes, I remember."

Fresno Dan remembered that he told Gould that the children used to coast down Sargent's hill and go almost to the railroad tracks. Mr. Nason reading from his paper asked about McComber's blacksmith shop as he talked it over with Gould.

"Did he ask you what was opposite the blacksmith shop, and did you say a schoolhouse and church?"

"Yes."

"And he said he meant directly across, and you said then it was a graveyard?"

"Yes."

Three particularly handsome women sat at Fresno Dan's right elbow. As he assented to things Mr. Nason read the trio chuckled, but it did not disturb either Fresno Dan or Mr. Nason.

Old School Days.

"Did Gould inquire of you about a school girl by the name of Hattie Keith?"

"I don't remember."

Miss Keith sat in the courtroom. She has been at every hearing. She was a sweetheart of Daniel Blake Russell's.

"Did you say you just remembered Hattie Keith just as any other girl?"

"I said something like that."

Hattie Keith says she never saw Fresno Dan. She is sure, she says, of Dakota Dan.

The hearing was adjourned until 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when it will continue until 4 p. m.

"LITTLEST" GIRL AT TRIAL EAGER TO SEE DAKOTA DAN

This is Dorothy Wolgom, and she comes from Melrose. So persistent was Dorothy's plea to attend the Russell will hearing in East Cambridge that her parents finally yielded. She is now an ardent champion of Dakota Dan as the lawful heir to the Russell fortune.

PRIEST BACK IN GHOST HOUSE

The "ghost," which is credited with haunting the parish house of the Church of the Sacred Heart at South Hanover has abandoned the field, temporarily, at least, according to statements issued from the dwelling today.

The ghost made no sign through the night. Whether his ghostship is keeping quiet to gather renewed power, is shy of publicity or is called away for the time being on some spooky affairs of his own, is a matter of conjecture. But during the night "he" or "it" was conspicuous by absence.

The Rev. Father Charles F. Donahue has returned to the parish house. He passed the night there with two other priests. Miss Margaret O'Connell, the housekeeper, was there as usual.

Fr. Donohue was busy about his parish duties and devoted much of his time to completing arrangements for the garden party of the parishioners next Saturday afternoon and evening. It will probably be held on the grounds around the house of mystery. Fr. Donohue regrets the publicity given the whole affair.

But townspeople stand in delighted little groups on the street corners talking over the coming of the ghost. They "never heard such a thing as a ghost coming out in the daytime," is the universal conclusion.

Not a few spoke of a man in Hanover, said to be able to make a watch stop in the hand or to make a picture turn over on the wall.

Schoolboy Sues for $10,000 Claim Eardrum Was Broken

Master Bassett Is Accused of Causing Serious Injury to Pupil.

Great interest has been aroused in South Boston over the suit for $10,000 brought against J. Gardner Bassett, master of the Bigelow school, in which assault and battery on Richard J. Sullivan, Jr., on May 10, is charged.

Mr. Bassett has been master of the Bigelow school for thirty-eight years. Young Sullivan is thirteen years of age and was in the fifth grade of the Bigelow school. Because of Mr. Bassett's well-known policy of eradicating force in his school the suit is of special interest to the residents of that section.

Through his attorney, Edward F. McClennan, of Brandeis, Dunbar & Nutter, Mr. Bassett denies that he ever used force on the Sullivan boy.

It is charged that the eardrum of the Sullivan boy was broken as a result of the alleged violence on the part of Mr. Bassett. Richard J. Sullivan, father of the boy, declares that on the evening of the alleged assault he found that his son was badly bruised on both sides of the face and had finger-marks on his throat. He said:

R. J. SULLIVAN, JR.

"I found on examination of my son that he was badly bruised on both sides of his face and both ears were badly swollen; there were also several distinct finger-marks on his throat.

"On questioning the boy, I learned that Richard was accused of talking to another member of his class during a lesson in geography by his teacher, Miss Stumple, who brought him to her desk and sent for Mr. Bassett. The latter came and as punishment placed the boy in the anteroom and told him to learn his lesson standing there. Shortly after my boy left the position and went downstairs.

"Mr. Bassett was notified and sent for Richard and took him to the library, where he says he was punched repeatedly, from which he became dazed. Shortly after the first beating Mr. Bassett took him into the library a second time and my boy says he was knocked against a desk which caused his right eardrum to burst."

Mr. Bassett, when questioned concerning the suit, declined to make any statement.

"I do not care to discuss this case," he said. "My attorney is Edward F. McClennan of Brandeis, Dunbar & Nutter. Any statement with reference to the case must come through him."

Mr. McClennan made this statement, to an AMERICAN reporter, of Mr. Bassett's version of the affair. He denied that any violence was used by Mr. Bassett or that the Sullivan boy was struck or even shaken. He said:

"The Sullivan boy was not punished at all by Mr. Bassett. He was neither struck or in any way spanked. He was not even shaken. If the Sullivan boy has anything the matter with his eardrum it must be a trouble of long standing. At least, it is a matter for which Mr. Bassett is in no way responsible. Neither is Mr. Bassett in any way responsible for the bruises that are alleged to have been found on the face of the Sullivan boy. If there were such bruises they were not the result of any violence on the part of Mr. Bassett."

HOW SHE FLED WITH CHILDREN

Mrs. Angelina Donaghue of this city, who took her two young children last Saturday from Brockton, where they have been with their father, said today she has as much right to the little ones as her husband has, that she did not kidnap them and that she has taken legal steps to restrain the father from recovering them.

The children are with Mrs. Donaghue's mother at No. 24 Winthrop street, East Boston. Lawrence, the elder, is four. James is three. The father is Bernard Donaghue of No. 380 Centre street, Brockton. On her trip to Brockton Mrs. Donaghue was accompanied by her sister, Lucy Villeco.

Mrs. Donaghue tells this story of the taking of the children:

"The tots we waited around several hours for the children to outrun. We waited just about ten minutes. It was sometime. We called to the children and they came to us. They were glad to see us. I picked up Lawrence and my sister picked up James and we ran down the street.

"A team was passing. I asked the man to give us a ride. We got on the wagon and I took the whip and lashed the horse to make him run. After ten minutes we got off the wagon. An automobile was passing and I asked the driver to take us to the railroad station, which he did. We waited about fifteen minutes at Montello station for a train to Boston. We took the 12:47 train. No one pursued us. Asked why it was necessary for her to take the children in such a manner, Mrs. Donaghue said:

"Mr. Donaghue took the children to stay with his parents. The last time I went there I kissed the children and was then put out of the house."

Mrs. Donaghue is an unusually pretty woman. She was one of the prize winners in the AMERICAN'S recent beauty contest.

CO-OPERATIVE KOSHER MEAT SHOP FAILS TO OPEN IN WEST END

The Kosher meat strikers were disappointed today in their plan to open a co-operative meat store at No. 64 Poplar street, West End. David Resnick was expected to open the co-operative store, but instead started selling independently. West End meat dealers, however, hearing of the plan, prevailed upon the West End slaughter house to refuse to sell Resnick any meat, and as a result he had only chickens in stock.

FRANK MOOREHOUSE FOUND DEAD FROM APOPLECTIC FIT

WEBSTER, July 25.—Frank Moorehouse, who has enjoyed the income of $100,000 for the last fifteen years, was found smothered to death today in his room at the Ill Try House, result of turning face down in bed in an apoplectic shock and drowning slightly off his breath. While the shock contributed largely to death, the examining physician was of the opinion that Moorehouse might have survived if he had not buried his face in the bedclothes when the shock came.

PELLETIER STANDS BY COURT CRITICISM

Clarence Whitemash, Division 1; Edward Moore, Division 1; John Gavarza, Division 2, and Cornelius McGuire. These men are all so-called "loyalists."

District Attorney Pelletier said when the Grand Jury adjourned for noon recess:

"This hearing before the Grand Jury will most likely continue to next Wednesday or Thursday. More Elevated officials will be summoned. I am not done with Mr. Richards yet. We will hear the men who are here now before Mr. Bancroft is called. We shall not let our business interfere with Mr. Bancroft's duties at the State House."

By this the District Attorney meant the conference of the Elevated president with Governor Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald on the settlement of the strike.

A large number of Elevated strikers were in the court house corridors, rather restless because there was no place for them to sit. Sheriff Quinn came through.

"What's the matter, boys?" asked the sheriff.

"Only two benches for all of us to sit on," somebody piped up.

"That's an outrage," said the sheriff promptly, and ordered ten extra benches put along the corridors to accommodate the waiting ones.

PELLETIER STANDS BY GUNS IN ATTACK ON COURT DECISIONS

District Attorney Pelletier stood by his guns today when asked the reason for his vigorous attack last night on lower court disposition of cases growing out of the Elevated strike.

The District Attorney said Governor Foss, in asking Chief Justice Aiken for speedy trials of the appealed cases, usurped the functions of the District Attorney's office.

The Boston Municipal Court judges are reticent on the matter.

The District Attorney was asked:

"Haven't you thought for the past six weeks sentences passed by the lower courts were severe? What was your reason for making your statement just at this time?"

"When I went to school," replied the District Attorney, "I was taught there are three forms of government. I always understood it was the form for the District Attorney to ask for speedy trials. The reason for my statement last night was because the Governor had assumed the District Attorney's rights."

"It is not good taste for one department of justice to comment upon another department," said Judge John Burke of the Municipal Court today when asked to make a statement.

Judge Burke continued: "Mr. Pelletier seems to have broken this rule, but I do not care to—at least not at this time."

Judge Ely of the same court said:

"It is a very delicate matter and one no judge of a Municipal Court should comment on."

The statement Mr. Pelletier made regarding lower court handling of strike cases was:

In some of the cases the complaint filed has been of such an extreme nature, such as charging robbery, where simple larceny would be of doubtful proof; and the outrageous sentences imposed, as three and six months for calling "scab"; one, two or three years for a simple assault, are not tolerable under present-day conditions, and I certainly purpose to stand between the people and such lower courts as seem to have lost all reason and by their sentences act as if any striker charged with crime should be sent to prison, guilty or not.

JAMES L. RICHARDS, "L" DIRECTOR WHO TESTIFIED TODAY

PELLETIER MAKES A BITTER ATTACK ON BOSTON COURTS FOR STRIKE SENTENCES.

In some of the cases the complaint against "Elevated" strikers filed has been of such an extreme nature, such as charging robbery, where simple larceny would be of doubtful proof; and the outrageous sentences imposed, as three and six months for calling "scab"; one, two or three years for a simple assault, are not tolerable under present day conditions, and I certainly purpose to stand between the people and such lower courts as seem to have lost all reason and by their sentences act as if any striker charged with crime should be sent to prison, guilty or not.—District Attorney Pelletier on the "L" situation.

DYER OUTLINES SCHOOL PLANS

Dr. Franklin B. Dyer of Cincinnati is expected in Boston tomorrow to confer with the School Committee and receive his commission as the $10,000 superintendent of Boston's schools.

"I must study the Boston school situation and the needs of all of the children of that city," Dr. Dyer said today in an interview with an AMERICAN correspondent in Cincinnati. "Possibly additional energy may be needed in the manual training department. Trade education is a most valuable department of any city school. If I find the Boston city schools backward in this feature or behind the times in shop work I shall certainly take steps to enlarge the school activities in that direction.

"I have been told of certain features that would seem to need considerable attention. Where I find a deficiency I shall at once take steps to aid those in charge and above all seek co-operation of all those who take a pride in the city from a manual training standpoint. I shall aim to secure the greatest good for the greatest number of the school patrons and conciliate if possible the possible discordant elements.

Plans Educational Pyramid.

"We have built in Cincinnati an educational pyramid that has proved a source of pride. I shall attempt to build such an educational structure in Boston to fit the needs of that ciy. If shop work has been neglected, attention will promptly be given to the raising of the school standard in that regard.

"Trade education is a most valuable feature of public school instruction today, though of course there are many other valuable parts to the public school educational pyramid of a metropolis like Boston. Each will receive due attention to the end that a well balanced school system be reared to the glory and good name of Boston.

"This last is my aim. Just when, how and by what means it will be accomplished I cannot say at this time. My motto will be: 'An adequate opportunity for every child according to his or her ability.'

"In Cincinnati we have won success by the adoption of the continuation school idea for those part of the time at work gaining a livelihood, the addition of a manual training department and the introduction of departments to care for the child above the average in precocity and those deficient in mental ability."

Mayor Fitzegarld Pleased.

Mayor Fitzgerald said in regard to Dr. Dyer's acceptance:

"I am very much pleased with Dr. Dyer's record for handling boys and girls who cannot finish high school courses and are compelled to go to work after leaving the grammar schools.

"If Dr. Dyer's coming will only awaken the school authorities to the necessity of providing education for those who must go to work early in life, it is the most distinct advance the schools of this city have ever witnessed; $10,000 will be a very small price if Dr. Dyer achieves the results."

MORSE MUM ABOUT GRAND TRUNK REPORT

BATH, Me., July 25.—Charles W. Morse, who has returned from Montreal, refuses to discuss the report that he is forming an alliance with the Grand Trunk Railway for putting on a line of steamers from New London, Ct., to Portland, Boston and New York.

FIGHT BEGINS FOR $1,000,000

time at the age of eighty-three. His second wife, whose right to the bulk of the big estate is disputed by the son, was nearly forty years his junior. The marriage took place two years ago at Swampscott. Mr. Brown died a month ago.

After his father's death Harold H. Brown said:

"It is true that my father and I were estranged for a while after his second marriage. I did not think that he should have married again at his time of life. But we became friendly before his death. He gave me an automobile."

Mrs. Brown was Miss Charlotte Thompson Ames, daughter of Franklin Ames, and a descendant of one branch of the prominent Ames family of North Easton. She was married to Joel Bradford, a Brockton business man.

Two years ago this month Mrs. Bradford, widowed by the death of her first husband, was a guest at the New Ocean House at Swampscott, of which Samuel N. Brown was owner. Mr. Brown had been a widower many years. His first wife was Miss Ruth Haskell of Marblehead. He became attracted to the engaging Mrs. Bradford. Despite the disparity of ages, they fell in love. The courtship was brief. The engagement was announced on August 28, 1910.

The marriage took place on the following October 12, despite the objection of the son. The aged bridegroom and his second wife lived in Swampscott and at Mr. Brown's city home, No. 119 Commonwealth avenue.

In his will Mr. Brown said that he paid his son "a considerable sum," also that there would be life insurance money due him.

Harold H. Brown, according to his stepmother, is a "very wealthy man." He lives at Brandon Hall, Brookline. He is a Spanish War veteran, a yachtsman, aviator and member of several clubs. He is considered a man of much determination.

When the will of Samuel Newman Brown showed that the son had been cut off with $1,000 the question of a contest was immediately raised.

On July 10 Sherman L. Whipple admitted he had been retained by the son as counsel to contest the will. The same day Mrs. Brown said:

Who will recognize "THE LADY WITH THE GREEN PARASOL" at Revere Beach, next Sunday? Her capture means $100.00 for SOMEONE. Why not you?

Clicquot Club GINGER ALE

Clicquot Club Ginger Ale appeals to men, women and children. Its mildness of zest makes it a delight to ladies and little folks who do not ordinarily like ginger ale because of its harsh, throat-burning quality. It is cooling, refreshing, satisfying—an ideal drink for summer. It goes well with crackers or sandwiches—or alone. Although reasonable in price, it is unapproachable in purity, wholesomeness and fine quality. It is served in the best families everywhere.

Find Lady With Green Parasol At Revere Beach on Sunday

Order for $100 in Gold for the Person Identifying This Mysterious Woman.

The only thing that will prevent "The Lady with the Green Parasol" from keeping her appointment with AMERICAN readers at Revere Beach next Sunday will be a tremendous steady down-pour of rain. Squally weather or an ordinary Summer shower will not in any way alter her program.

AMERICAN readers may feel assured that nothing except weather as bad as last Sunday's will prevent the chase for "The Lady with the Green Parasol."

She will be there at the time and place appointed,—let there be no misunderstanding on this point.

The daily publication of this woman's picture, posed in different attitudes, should greatly simplify her identification. It will be a most interesting test of AMERICAN readers' powers of observation.

Under ordinary conditions it is a difficult matter to find a place for a Sunday outing which is more congenial than Revere Beach. But when you add to these pleasant surroundings the chance to return home at night $100 richer than when you started in the morning, it makes it more interesting and attractive, doesn't it?

Some one who goes to Revere Beach next Sunday to identify "The Lady with the Green Parasol" will be worth $100 more by night. It is absolutely immaterial to the AMERICAN as to who this "some one" is. The first man, woman or child who identifies "The Lady with the Green Parasol" as directed will receive the award.

It is a lot of money—$100. If you don't believe it, start to save up $100 and see how long it takes you to do it. But there is no tedious saving-up process about this $100 reward.

Plan your outing for Sunday now. Turn to the picture of "The Lady with the Green Parasol" printed elsewhere in this paper. Examine its every feature. Her identification is worth just $100 in gold to you if you identify her at Revere Beach next Sunday.

"The Lady with the Green Parasol" will stroll along Ocean avenue, the beach and along the Boulevard, from Condit's Dance Hall to Revere street, between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. next Sunday, and the chase will go on under precisely the same terms and conditions as were arranged for last Sunday.

The man, woman or child who identifies her will receive from her a Boston AMERICAN order for $100 in gold.

The only requirement is that the person who identifies "The Lady with the Green Parasol" have in his or her hand, IN PLAIN SIGHT, a copy of next Sunday's AMERICAN and shall say to her: "You are the Lady with the Green Parasol."

Anyone whose eyesight is unimpaired and who thinks $100 would come in handy at this time is invited to take part in this search next Sunday.

Will you recognize her when you meet "The Lady with the Green Parasol"? We'll find out next Sunday afternoon.

R. H. WHITE CO.

TODAY'S POLITICS.

PICK BRYAN TO HARRY MOOSE

SEAGIRT, N. J., July 25.—"Watch the Bull Moose" is to be the first maxim of Governor Wilson's presidential campaign.

The Wilson managers intend to take care of Colonel Roosevelt because they regard him as their most dangerous adversary. And William Jennings Bryan is to be chief Moose harrier. The plan is to have Mr. Bryan follow Roosevelt through the country and meet his arguments with oratory and facts. It is intended that Bryan shall follow a day after the colonel into every city he visits, and talk wherever possible to practically the same audience.

Mr. Bryan will not merely take a defensive attitude. He will assume the offensive and hurl at Roosevelt pertinent questions about the Harvester Trust, the Steel Trust and the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company. Also he will assail him on his record in the White House.

An invitation has been extended to Mr. Bryan to visit Governor Wilson at the "little White House" about the middle of August. Mr. Bryan is to be asked to remain three or four days. Mr. Bryan will be urged to keep his hand on the lever.

Governor Wilson has now been engaged three days in writing his speech of acceptance, but his secretary admitted today that the task has proved far more difficult than the Governor had expected, and it is unlikely that document will be completed before Saturday afternoon. Governor Wilson has some appointments here on Saturday and will have to return unless he can put them off. Mrs. Wilson and her daughter Margaret have gone to join the Governor. Miss Jessie and Miss Eleanor, the other daughters, are with friends in Lime, Conn.

In the meanwhile the mail is piling up and important letters are awaiting the Governor's attention. Among the letters are many from fond parents who have named their baby boys for the Democratic nominee. Up to date there are forty babies who have had the prefix Woodrow thrust upon them within the last month.

SHELDON TELLS OF BIG HARRIMAN FUND IN 1904 CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, July 25.—J. P. Morgan & Co., as well as Henry C. Frick, were contributors to the National Republican war chest in 1904, the Roosevelt campaign, and E. H. Harriman collected a fund of $230,000 for the New York State campaign of that year, according to George R. Sheldon, a New York banker, who has been identified with the National Committee since 1896 and was its treasurer in 1908.

Mr. Sheldon testified today before the Senate sub-committee investigating campaign expenditures. He filed with the investigators today detailed records of the receipts and expenditures of 1908, including a list of 16,000 contributors whose gifts totalled $1,655,518.27.

Mr. Sheldon declared that men connected with Morgan & Co. and Henry C. Frick had told him of those contributions in the 1904 campaign, the records of which, he understood, had been destroyed. He could recall no amounts.

"What do you know of any contributions by E. H. Harriman in 1908?" Senator Paynter asked him.

"I think that has all been published," said Mr. Sheldon. "But about a week before the election Governor Odell, who was then State chairman in New York and very much interested in the election of Higgins, came to Mr. Bliss, the national committee treasurer, and told him that whereas it seemed perfectly clear that Mr. Roosevelt would be elected, the State ticket was in doubt and asked Mr. Bliss for some money.

"Bliss told him that he had no money, but that he would see what could be done. Bliss went to Mr. Harriman and told him about it and Harriman got together some $230,000, which was given directly in the State committee and never went into the fund of the national committee."

"Was this contribution made the subject of correspondence between Harriman and the then President, Mr. Roosevelt?"

"No, sir," replied Sheldon. "As far as I know Roosevelt knew nothing of the contribution until long after."

COLONEL FLAYS BOTH PARTIES

NEW YORK, July 25.—A bitter attack upon both the Republican and Democratic parties was made by Theodore Roosevelt in an article entitled "Platform Insincerity," which appeared in the current issue of the Outlook today. The Colonel said:

"The bosses of the Democratic party and the bosses of the Republican alike have a closer grip than ever before on the party machines in the States and in the Nation."

After putting this spike in the wheel of the two elder political parties, Mr. Roosevelt turns his attention to that faith born of his virtual bolt at Chicago. He said:

"The best prospect for a liberated party exists in extending the revolt of the progressives, who have so successfully worked out their control in Pennsylvania, California, Washington, Oregon, Wisconsin, the Dakotas, Kansas and Nebraska."

Mr. Roosevelt characterizes the platforms of both parties as "models of dangerous insincerity and of bad faith." He said:

"The present conditions in the two old parties and the platforms put forth by both of them show that it is hopeless to get anything good out of them. To endeavor to punish this remission in each party alternately by voting for the other is to follow the course most greatly appreciated by the corrupt bosses of both."

The colonel seems to feel that the Democratic platform is the one upon which he must centre his analytical attack, for he dismisses the party constitution adopted by the Republicans at Chicago with an attack upon Mr. Taft and his administration and the assertion that "the platform of the Republicans is bad anyhow."

Colonel Roosevelt laughed today over the opinion expressed by Election Commisioner Livingston of Brooklyn that under the law there can be no third party electors in New York State this Fall.

"What Mr. Livingston fails to understand is that the politician, the officeholder, is the servant of the people. He will come to that later on," said the Colonel. "The people are going to have their way about the putting of electors on that ticket.

"We are going to have a third ticket in the State this Fall. Mr. Livingston will find that out. Nothing can prevent it."

Colonel Roosevelt laughed when he was told that the Wilson managers contemplated putting William J. Bryan on the Colonel's trail in the Fall campaign.

"Is that so?" he replied. "Nothing to say."

The Colonel went horseback riding this morning with Mrs. Roosevelt. He is getting in a good rest here prior to his activities in August. He expects to be in Chicago the entire time of the third party convention, getting there on Monday, August 5. After the convention he expects to make several short trips. One trip to the Point of Pines in Massachusetts is scheduled for the middle of August.

FORMER SENATOR BEVERIDGE PRESIDES OVER PROGRESSIVES

CHICAGO, July 25.—Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge will be temporary chairman of the Progressive national convention. This was announced today by Senator Joseph M. Dixon. The former Indiana Senator has accepted the position and will sound the keynote of the new movement.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 25.—Former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge has announced himself as strongly in favor of the progressive party movement. In a letter from his Summer home at Seal Harbor, Me., to progressive leaders here Mr. Beveridge gives his answer to thousands of letters received from Indiana asking where he stands in the political situation.

Beveridge points out that the status of both Roosevelt and Taft is exactly the same as before the Chicago Convention, and declraes that the matter of "party regularity" should not now be binding because Taft was not nominated by a lawful majority of delegates honestly chosen

TAFT CANDIDATE FOR ELECTOR DESERTS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 25.—C. D. Thomas, nominated for presidential elector on the Republican ticket, has resigned. In a letter to the State Republican Committee Mr. Thomas says the resignation follows a personal investigation of the nomination of President Taft. "The so-called nomination of Taft," the letter says, "was fraudulent."

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

PILGRIMS TAKE A DAY OF REST IN NEW YORK

Plenty of Work Ahead for the Big Brother

By Hal Coffman

RILEY'S COLUMN

BASEBALL is a strenuous game. The Red Sox discovered that when they opened the week with Cleveland. They had that tired feeling. They lapsed. Yesterday the crash came. Today a bunch of American League leaders awoke to that they had stumbled into the first downfall since they started the pace in the West that gave them, first, the lead and gradually, game by game, put them eight full games in the front. As Cleveland was their first stumbling block in the West, it was the same team they went to pieces before yesterday, and the fall was worse than the score, 11 to 6, indicates.

* * *

HAVE the Red Sox "cracked?" That was the question "fans" asked today. It looks like they did "crack," but a better suggestion is that they "cracked" at the right time, and that, being the youngest, all around, team in the league, the process of "cracking" just at this particular time did them good and indicated that they are resting up a set of strained "nerves" for the tough western trip that begins tonight.

* * *

AFTER they struck their gait at St. Louis in June, they played such lightning baseball that they finished the trip with seventeen games won and eight lost, an average of a little better than two in every three games played. When they came home they started a t a "three-in-four" clip, finally jumped into a "four-in-five" pace in the Athletics, Detroit and White Sox series, and then faced the "Naps."

* * *

NOW, it is either a good sign or a bad sign that they slumped in their playing during the Cleveland series. It is a good sign if it means that the Red Sox simply took the opportunity to relieve the tension they were under when they were fighting close battles with their most persistent opponents. It is a bad sign if it means that the Sox fought so hard in all of those bitter battles that they have "caved." It is probable that the former is true.

* * *

IN that case the Red Sox have played wise baseball this week. They have not played championship baseball, but have not over-exerted themselves. If that is the answer, they will start West on the campaign that ends August 31 with a fairly well restored stock of energy, and if they can win two of every three games they play, without undue exhaustion, they will return with a comfortable lead. The Red Sox are a bunch of youngsters, and this week's slump in playing ought to do them more good than harm. The Giants, in the National, and the Athletics, Senators and White Sox have suffered these collapses.

* * *

YESTERDAY they were caught in a corner in the seventh inning and, after playing "right" baseball for a few minutes, collapsed utterly, looking anything but big league champions. They got their goose bole, in the first place, when, with two men out in the first inning, Wagner let Jackson's drive pass him, and then Bedient fell. Griggs hit the ball for two bases, Bedient dropped it, went after Turner's bounder in slovenly fashion and let it pass him and Birmingham and Agnew both tripled. Thus does a baseball game slip away from the best of them.

BASEBALL is as much a matter of inspiration and quick-wittedness and applied energy as anything else, and there isn't so much difference on any night one expect between the leaders and the followers—witness the rise of the Senators. If Wagner had taken Jackson's drive, Bedient and his mates would probably have gone along reasonably well. If Bedient had made a gingerly effort for Turner's dribbler the "Naps" would have scored but one run in the first, and the game would have had a different complexion. But the two misplays were made and the tally was four.

* * *

USUALLY, the Red Sox pull out of such holes and they thought they could do it yesterday. Outsiders who had noticed the perilous way they had pulled through Monday and Tuesday thought differently. And so it happened. Charley Hall was rushed into the game, and under ordinary circumstances he would have won.

* * *

BUT most of the Red Sox pitchers have been a bit "stale" this week after their strenuous campaign, and they had a good one in the box—Steen, a Pacific Coast "spitballer," who won thirty and lost fifteen in his league last season and developed into a reliable big leaguer when he was pitted against the Senators and the Athletics. So, when timing after inning passed without the Sox overcoming the lead, it looked dubious.

* * *

THEN came the crash. Ryan walked in the seventh. Livingston bit to Gardner, and the ball bounced away from him. Stahl ran in for a bunt from Stone, and when the Cleveland pitcher tapped it the ball bounded away from Jake and the bases were filled, with none out. The Sox infield was drawn in, and Peckinpaugh, slamming to Wagner, was forced Ryan at the plate. But it was not Wagner's best throw and it was not Carrigan's speediest effort to nail Peckinpaugh at first, and the bases were still filled.

* * *

OLSON then drove a low liner to centre field. If Speaker had caught it the play would have been wonderful, but Speaker has been doing these things right along and the "fans" expected to see him get this one off the grass. Speaker just missed it, but recovered the ball so quickly that, aided by the four easy runners on base, only one run—Livingston's—scored on the hit. With any other fielder except Cobb, perhaps, everybody would have bustled, and probably more tallies would have come across. Also any other man, missing after such an effort, would have let the ball pass him so that the bases would have been cleared.

* * *

BUT the bases were still filled, with one out and one run in. The Sox infielders played in again. Jackson drove another to Wagner, who once more caught the runner—Steen—at the plate, and two were gone. But the strain of having three on for a whole inning with the other fellow in the lead was too much and, on the next play, when Griggs hit to Gardner, the crash came. Larry had a choice of "getting" Peckinpaugh at the plate or Griggs at first. He was in a natural position to throw home, but Griggs was farthest from base and he tried to cut him down. The throw was wild and Stahl dropped it. Peckinpaugh scored. Stahl picked up the ball and, with Olson dashing for the plate, threw wide to Carrigan, so that Olson and Jackson both scored.

* * *

THE disaster continued when Turner sailed to left. Lewis made a perfect throw to Carrigan, on the bound, to nipple Olson, but Olson (Griggs, carrying home) but Bill, usually sure of those heaves, dropped the ball and Griggs tallied, Turner reaching second. Birmingham walked, but Turner tried to steal second and Carrigan threw him out, ending the most disastrous inning the Red Sox have had this year. There were four errors in the inning, made by three of the veterans—Gardner, Stahl and Carrigan.

* * *

THE Red Sox went out—one, two, three in their half. Stahl decided that there was no chance to win and withdrew his first team from the field for a rest, giving the second string their first complete chance this year. Pape and Nunamaker were the lottery, Bradley went to first, Bali to second, Krug to shortfield, Engle to third base and Henriksen to centre field. Eight thousand "fans" cheered the second string along, and they made twice as many runs—four—as the first string had made in seven innings and chased Steen from the box, the star, Vean Gregg, finishing the game.

* * *

IN this "fest" of the second string, Bradley contributed a two-bagger, Hendricks a single; Hooper, who with Lewis was the only first-string man in the game, a single walked twice, Ball delivered a sacrifice, and Nunamaker and Cady (who batted for Pape) both walked for bases on balls. The second string contributed two of the eight runs made by the Red Sox—Krug having both slip-ups—which is by far the greatest series of mishaps the Red Sox have made this year.

* * *

TILL Red Sox fell with a crash, but, as remarked before, it was probably a good thing to relieve the tension.

* * *

RAIN in Washington yesterday helped the Red Sox—perhaps—so that the last game only counted a half game less in the percentage column. But it wasn't the loss of the game that counted so much as the way it was lost.

JIGGS CASE SERIOUS.

COLUMBUS, O., July 25.—Jiggs Donohue, former baseball star in the American League, is in the State Hospital here, being afflicted with melancholia. He has never been himself since his wife started divorce proceedings last Winter. Physicians say that the chances are small of his being cured from mild form of insanity.

WANT SWEENEY TO MANAGE REDS

CINCINNATI, July 25.—According to a story published here today, Bill Sweeney, captain of the Boston Pilgrims, figures in a proposed deal which, if it goes through, would make Sweeney manager of the Reds.

The story is that Sweeney was to be traded for Mitchell, Grant and Egan of the Reds, together with a cash consideration.

President Garry Herrmann of the Cincinnati team denied the story, but for the first time confirmed the story published exclusively in the Boston Sunday AMERICAN that the Reds had a standing offer of $10,000 for Sweeney's release.

"The story of the trade is all news to me," said Herrmann today. "I would certainly like to get Sweeney, but no such trade is on as far as I know. We have made an offer of $10,000 for Sweeney, which stands.

"This started last November, when a friend of Dick Egan and $10,000 for Sweeney was stopped by Fred Tenney, then manager of the Boston team."

At that time, it will be recalled, Sweeney sought his release from Boston because he had an opportunity to succeed Clark Griffith as manager of the Reds. Sweeney lives at Newport, Ky., near Cincinnati.

The Boston Nationals would not let him go, and later Sweeney decided to quit baseball altogether unless he received an increase in pay, which he received when he was about to quit the team.

The story here is that if Cincinnati succeeded in getting Sweeney he would be made manager. Hank O'Day, the former National League umpire, who had the Reds going at the top of the league in the early campaigning, and who was hailed as a wonder because of that performance, is reported to be "in bad" now, the story being that the team is in discord and that a change of managers may be expected.

Convicts Now Have a Baseball League

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., July 25.—For the first time in the history of the penal institutions of New York State, baseball has been adopted as a part of prison curriculum.

The first game, according to an announcement today by Warden Homer, will be played next Saturday afternoon at Comstock, when two nines composed of prisoners in the Great Meadow prison, will cross bats on the prison grounds.

A total of 540 men are enrolled at the institution, and among these a five-team league has been organized to play for the prison championship.

WALLACE SLATED FOR NEW BERTH

NEW YORK, July 25.—After seventeen years' service in the major leagues, Bobby Wallace is likely to be soon asked to go to the minors. Reasons: Salary too high, peppiness waning.

Manager Stovall gave a hint of Wallace's future when he said, in response to questions:

"I am looking to build up my team, and new players are what I want. Look at what Washington has done by injecting new blood into the club.

"I am figuring on several trades. Yes, Wallace will be in the deal, if we can work it. Wallace, I figure it, has lots of good playing in him. Bob's salary is a big handicap to us, and, of course, he would be no good to us if his check was cut."

Wallace's salary, prior to his becoming manager of the Browns, called for $5,500 a year, according to best obtainable information. This figure followed a cut from $6,500.

Following his retention as manager of the team his salary is said to have been raised $2,000 a year, or to $7,500.

When asked about his future, Wallace said:

"No minor leagues for me. I know two clubs which will take me off Stovall's hands, but the price must be moderate. If I don't make good with another club it means good-by to baseball for me. I'll not go down the ladder."

Baseball News and Gossip

The Yankee are coming back and they will no longer be a cinch for the opposing teams. Up to the last week Manager Wolverton had been forced to play a team with many recruits in the lineup, but now nearly all of the tried players are back in the game and are putting up a good article of ball.

* * *

Of course Manager Wolverton does not expect to climb very high in the league race this season. The team is now in seventh place, many games behind Cleveland, but all hands are going out to fight for a position higher. Wolverton is planning for next season and believes that he will be in the race then. With many of his old players back in the game and the youngsters to help out, he hopes to be in the hunt.

* * *

Charley Dooin now has his team in the first division. At the beginning of the season it was thought that the Phillies would be factors in the pennant race, but a long series of injuries handicapped the team. Dooin's men passed Hank O'Day's Reds this week, and, according to Dooin, the team will never go lower in the standing.

* * *

This Eppa Rixey appears to have the goods. Since leaving his college team he has won four straight games for the Phillies and in most of them gave good exhibitions of pitching. He held the Cubs to a few hits a week ago and looked like a wonder. It is said that Manager Chance offered $17,000 for his services. His name is Rixey—he is a southerner. Now look for puns rhyming with "Dixie." If he goes up it will be "dixie."

* * *

The New York Giants have purchased a minor league wonder for $8,000 in Pat Green of the Connecticut League. The Detroit Tigers have picked up a recruit in McGehee for $750. The fans are already looking forward to the first appearance of both youngsters and many claim that the $750 boy will be the best of the two.

* * *

It has been said that the Athletics have a $100,000 outfield. Well, what about the $1,000,000 outfield that the Red Sox have hired to pick the balls of the fences?

* * *

Rollo Zeider has been reinstated by Manager Callahan of the White Sox and he will play his old position at first base. Fournier, who has been covering the bag since Rollo was out of the battle, will be benched. Fournier played a great fielding game at the first station and if he improves in his hitting will be good for the big leagues, but he is weak with the willow at present and this is what gives Zeider a chance.

Pitcher Collins of the Vanderbilt University team is being sought by Manager Griffith of the Senators. Collins made a reputation in the college circles but is doubtful whether he will join the majors.

M'LOUGHLIN TOO FAST FOR LARNED

In three straight sets Maurice E. McLoughlin, the young California tennis expert, defeated Edward P. Larned, in the challenge match for the Longwood cup yesterday afternoon. The play took but an hour, and Larned proved an easy victim to McLoughlin's slashing style of play. He won 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

The match was a disappointment to the large throng of tennis fans present. They expected to see last year's winner give the Westerner a hard fight for the honors. But there was no denying the way in which McLoughlin went at it, and for the first time in nine years the challenge bowl last evening passed into the hands other than those of a Larned.

From the way in which McLoughlin has played throughout the all-comers' tournament and challenge match, he is now being hailed as the coming national champion. His record has been a most remarkable one. In all, during the past tournament, he has played and won twenty sets, only six even going to deuce.

To do this he has had to win 130 games, and his seven opponents have been able, together, to secure but 79. Even W. A. Larned in his best days could boast of no better showing.

McLoughlin's dazzling service was working at its best in yesterday's match, and Larned could not solve it with any degree of certainty at any time.

He tried waiting for it far behind the back line and suffered the same fate as did Clothier, being completely fooled by short dumps over the net by the challenger. Baffled in these attempts, the holder of the cup played in close and was passed at the net on nearly every shot.

There was no denying the speed and accuracy which marked nearly every stroke of the San Francisco player.

The last set was the keenest battle, with Larned fighting for every point; but hopelessly, outclassed. Each player took two out of the first four games, winning on his serve, and then McLoughlin broke through and won four in succession by pretty placing at the net. The ninth game was a win for Larned, but he was badly tired and the last and deciding one went easily to McLoughlin on his own service.

Ping Bodie Has the "Jinx" on His Trail

Troubles beset "Ping" Bodie on every hand on this trip of the Chicago Sox to the East. First of all, his safety pen ran amuck and traced a Moorish design over his white vest. An Algerian stopped him in the streets of Boston and went into ecstasies over the decoration. "Ping" backed up and beat a retreat to the hotel, fearful that he was in the toils of a conspiracy.

In the hurry of packing his baggage he put in three right-handed shoes. The clerk at the drug store gave him a bottle of pain killer by mistake for tooth wash, and to top the avalanche that had been sliding down upon him from the apex of the roof he struck out five times in succession in Boston, something which he had never done in his life until he had gazed upon the Fens of the Back Bay.

On the way to New York he narrowly saved a Panama hat from taking a sea voyage. Incidentally, that was the subject of a discourse upon the incongruity of the fitness of things. "A hat," quoth the philosopher of the Sox, "can sail and sail upon the ocean blue and pay not a penny for the privilege, but if a human being, who really amounts to something, wishes to ferry from Lynn to Boston a soulless corporation must be recompensed to the extent of a nickel. Why not charge the hat for a ride and let the man go free?"

Sam Langford Held Abroad by Auto Bill

SYDNEY, Australia, July 25.—The real reason why Sam Langford was detained here was not because of any agreement he or his manager had contracted with Promoter Hugh C. McIntosh, but because Sam is alleged to have sidestepped a bill for $1,500 sent by an automobile firm here for his use of their cars.

It appears that Langford used these cars frequently and the bill amounted to considerable but the Boston negro apparently believed he could clean up enough in his bout with Jim Barry to make good the bill.

However, the natives here failed to fall for the Barry fight and the result was only $1,250 for Langford's end.

Harvard and Yale to Meet Britons Here

A dual meet between Harvard and Yale and the athletes of the English universities, Oxford and Cambridge, has been practically agreed upon, to be held at the Harvard Stadium in June of next year.

News comes form abroad that Clarence C. Childs, the Yale weight man, while in Stockholm attending the Olympic games, virtually completed the negotiations for the meet with A. R. McIntosh, secretary of the Oxford University Track Association.

The details are to be settled by correspondence after Childs returns and makes his report to the Yale athletic board.

Lawrence Signs Up Semi-Pro Southpaw

LAWRENCE, July 25.—Manager Pieper of the local baseball team has secured a left-handed pitcher, whose name is McCarthy and whose home is in Cambridge. On the Fourth he pitched three games and only nine hits were made off him in the three contests. In the recent Detroit-Boston series he pitched to the batters and made a fine showing.

South Boston Star and Charlestown Champion Battle on Card

MURPHY AND BALDWIN TO MEET HERE AGAIN

By JACK CONWAY.

ABE ATTELL, the former featherweight champion, has evidently decided to remain with Billy Nolan, for Jimmy Coffroth, the veteran Coast promoter, has announced that the Attell-Murphy bout will take place next month, as was previously arranged. This came on top of Attell's assertion that he would not meet Murphy, as he considered the Harlem real estate magnate too heavy for him.

If Attell quits Nolan, his future in the ring will probably not be a very brilliant one. Abe is a wonderful boxer and a very brainy little fellow, but he cannot keep away from the card table unless he is guided by a firm hand.

Nolan is one of the best boxing managers in the business. But he will not stand for any fooling. What he says is law, and if his charge refuses to obey his rulings to the letter he will have nothing to do with him.

IF Attell fights Murphy and wins, he will be a big drawing card here in the East. Abe is now heavier than he has been at any time during his career in the ring, and this additional weight is sure to be of tremendous value to him when he is battling with the leading lightweights. There are few 133 pounders in the business who have anything on Attell when he is right.

Abe, of course, will probably never again be a champion. He has been fighting for close to fifteen years, and the wear and tear of active training has worn him down considerably. Youth must be served in the ring as in every other line of sport.

EDDIE MURPHY, the South Boston lightweight, has several dozen too enterprising press agents in the Middle West. Every few days reports are sent out from Chicago or the immediate vicinity to the effect that the Peninsular pride has been matched to battle with Packey McFarland, Paul Koehler or some other prominent mitt wielder.

Murphy started west the other day and reports were immediately circulated from Chicago that Eddie had signed to battle with Packey McFarland. As a matter of fact, the reason why Murphy went west was not to start training for a bout with McFarland, but simply to see his lady love.

When the South Boston boy was last in the Windy City, he met one of its most charming young social leaders, and like many another man has done before him, he fell in love. Eddie was forced to return east in order to fill several engagements which he had in the ring. But his thoughts were about his maid in the West.

Eddie told his friends the other day that he was going to make a little business trip to Chicago, but before leaving home he told what his real mission was.

Murphy's next bout will probably be with Matty Baldwin of Charlestown when he will probably meet at the Pilgrim A. A. on September 9. Matchmaker Johnny Mooney has offered Murphy the opportunity to show at the opening show of the Pilgrim Club. The weight for the match will be 133 pounds at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. When these two sturdy battlers last met the contest was declared a draw after twelve rounds of sensational fighting.

Bouts Tonight.

Young McDonough vs. Bobby Wilson, New Bedford.

Jeff Madden vs. Jim Ten Brook, Adams.

John Connelly vs. Mickey McIntyre, Glace Bay, N. S.

W. Walters vs. Bert Stanley, Racine.

FREDDY DUFFY, the popular Jamaica Plain boxer, is taking things easy during the Summer months. Freddy has received several offers to box in New York and another to show his prowess in a New Bedford ring, but he has turned them all down. He believes that a short layoff will be of tremendous advantage to him when he starts campaigning again in the Fall.

Duffy is one of the most promising boxers in New England. He has been performing as a professional for several years and has never lost a referee's decision.

George Fallon's protege is a big favorite in Jamaica Plain, where his clean living and sportsmanlike habits have won for him many friends.

IF "Spider" Murphy is really anxious to fight, he need not look far for an opponent. Murphy issued a sweeping defy to any flyweight to bantamweight in New England through this column yesterday. I received the following letter from Young Aronson of East Boston today, all of which may be pleasant reading to Mr. Murphy:

"I saw Murphy's challenge in your column and wish to say that I am ready to meet him within two weeks. I will guarantee that I will give him a severe beating, and if I lose I am willing to give my end of the purse to some almshouse."

How about it, "Spider"?

SPEED BATTLE AT BEACH OVAL

Joe Nelson, the Swedish cyclist, has been named as the fourth man for the one-hour motor paced brassard race at the Revere cycle track next Saturday night and he will make the effort of a lifetime to win the race.

Nelson is training daily behind the motors at the Newark track and reports state that he is the fastest man at the Jersey oval at the present time.

Clarence Carman, the holder of the brassard honors, is also at the Newark track, and the youngster in sporting parlance is "fairly flying." His recent successes have given him confidence and he now knows that if he puts his speed and strength into a race that he can win.

Wiley and Moran, who also ride in the brassard, are training daily and every indication points to one of the best races of the year. The men are well matched, and barring motor trouble, it is safe to say that it will be a gruelling contest for the entire sixty minutes of competition.

PLAN MOTOR CYCLE RACE TO PACIFIC

COLUMBUS, O., July 24.—A resolution, providing for an ocean-to-ocean relay race, to be participated in by every motorcycle club in the United States, was passed by the Federation of American Motorcyclists at its final meeting here.

The tentative plan provides for the carrying of a message from New York to Los Angeles, and the participation of more than three hundred riders.

STALLINGS NOT TO MANAGE DODGERS

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 25.—Manager George Stallings of the Buffalo International League club, set at rest all rumors stating that he is to manage the Brooklyn club of the National League next season. The big chief says there is absolutely nothing doing.

"So far as I know, I will be with Buffalo next season," said Stallings.

TOMMY O'KEEFE IS SHADED BY CROSS

NEW YORK, July 25.—Leach Cross of New York outpointed Tommy O'Keefe of Philadelphia by a shade in a 10-round bout.

Cross did all the forcing and was the aggressor throughout. Neither had scored a knockdown. O'Keefe gave Cross the best battle the East Sider has had in the last year.

50 TICKETS TO PILGRIM GAMES

Fifty more free tickets for the Red Sox or Pilgrim games are given away today. Johnny Kling and his crew will be back at the Walpole street grounds tomorrow and they should put up some fast games.

The Pilgrims have been having the toughest kind of luck lately. They have lost a number of games by one and two-run margins. The pitchers have been doing better work than they have at any time this season.

Kling realizes that he has got a sub-cellar aggregation and is out to get several new players. He intends to release all players who are not capable of playing ball as it should be played in a major league.

If you want to get one of these free baseball tickets, save the coupons being distributed by newsboys and newsdealers and compare the number on your coupon with the numbers which are printed daily in the AMERICAN. If a number corresponding to the number on your coupon is printed, present your coupon at the Boston AMERICAN, Promotion Department, No. 5 Winthrop square, and you will be given a free grandstand ticket to one of the Red Sox or Pilgrim games.

ATTELL CHANGES MIND.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—After a conference with Promoter James Coffroth, Abe Attell reconsidered today his previously announced determination to cancel the August 3 date with Harlem Tommy Murphy for a twenty-three round fight here.

SAWYER-THOMAS DRAW.

ROCKLAND, Me., July 25.—Joe Thomas and Tom Sawyer fought two six-round bouts here. Had the Maine law permitted a decision it would have been difficult to make a selection, so evenly matched were the pair.

PILE UP VOTES FOR BIG SERIES

And now it's the Naps! But what's the use—they can't come too big for the Red Sox.

Every day seems to make Boston a 1912 pennant winning certainty. This is certainly good news for baseball candidates.

Twenty New England fans are going to be sent by the AMERICAN to attend the World's Series games, all expenses paid. The winners will be determined by popular vote. The ballots appear daily in the AMERICAN. The twenty candidates who receive the largest vote will be sent on the coveted trips.

On Sunday August 4th, the AMERICAN will print a complete list of the vote standing of all candidates. This list will be compiled up to Wednesday, July 31, at 11 a. m. This means that all votes for the first standing must be turned in before that day and hour.

So pile up a big vote total for the first printed list, candidates. It means assistance from your friends all over New England. The thing to do is to get busy right now and get every available vote so that your name will be at the top of the Sunday list, August 4th. The way to win a race is to get the jump from the start if you can. The time to get the start in the World's Series Contest is right now before the first vote standing appears.

NEW THREE-MILE MOTOR CYCLE MARK

NEW YORK, July 25.—Arthur Chapple of New York established a new three-mile world's record for motor cycles at the Brighton Beach motordrome, covering the distance in 1:59 2-5. The first mile of the trial was made in 39 seconds, lowering the world's record of 39 1-5, established by Chapple last night. The track is a one-third mile saucer.

NAPS GET TWIRLER FROM THE SOUTH

ANDERSON, S. C., July 25.—It is announced that the Anderson Club of the Carolina Association has sold Pitcher Ernie Wolfe to the Cleveland Americans. The price was not made public. Wolfe will report to Cleveland September 2, at the close of the Carolina Association season.

Marshall Tied for Place in Chess Match

BRESLAU, July 25.—F. J. Marshall, the United States champion, by a clean-cut victory over Carls of Bremen, in the fifth round of the international chess masters' tournament, succeeded in overtaking A. K. Rubinstein, Russia's champion, and the two famous masters are now tied for first place, each with a score of four points out of a possible five to his credit.

While Marshall was busy disposing of his opponent, Rubinstein had to contend against another German adversary, namely, Cohn of Berlin, and the latter was in such capital form and proved so stubborn that Rubinstein, after a protracted struggle, had to be satisfied with a draw.

This setback resulted in the Russian's advantage of the previous round being neutralized. The showing of S. Lewitzky of St. Petersburg, one of the two newcomers, is the surprise of the tournament.

The scores after five rounds:

Players.	Won.	Lost.	Players.	Won.	Lost.
Marshall	4	1	Treybal	2	2
Rubinstein	4	1	Burn	2	3
Lewitzky	3½	1½	Barasz	1½	2½
Tarrasch	3½	1½	Spielmann	1½	2½
Teichmann	3½	1½	Lowtzky	1½	3½
Cohn	3	1	Breyer	1	3
Duras	3	2	Mieses	1	4
Schlechter	3	2	Przepiorka	1	3
Carls	2½	2½	Balla	½	4½

The players will meet in the sixth round in the following order:

Teichmann vs. Carls, Barasz vs. Lowtzky, Burn vs. Spielmann, Breyer vs. Balla, Schlechter vs. Tarrasch, Cohn vs. Treybal, Mieses vs. Rubinstein, Duras vs. Przepiorka, Lewitzky vs. Marshall.

Foresters Plan for Meet at Manchester

A number of prominent Boston athletes are planning to compete in the thirty-first annual field day of the Court Granite State of the order of Foresters, which will be held at Manchester, N. H., on August 17. A fine list of sports have been arranged and the competition for the premier laurels in the different events is sure to be close and interesting.

There are six open events. They are as follows: Ten-mile "Marathon" run; one-mile run, 100-yard dash, running broad jump, putting the shot and the running hop, step and jump.

Entries for the meet will close Thursday, August 15, with William V. Ryan, carrier 13, P. O. D., Manchester, N. H.

Mel Sheppard Makes New German Record

BERLIN, July 25.—Several of the members of the American Olympic team were winners in the games held here yesterday.

Melvin W. Sheppard of the Irish-American A. C. won the 1000 metres, establishing a new record of 2m. 33 9-10s., which is 4 1-10s. better than the German record.

Ralph Rose bettered by 15 centimetres (nearly 6 inches) the record for putting the square stone weighing 36 2-3 pounds, although he had never taken part in this event before.

Donald F. Lippincott, University of Pennsylvania, easily defeated the German sprinter Rau in the 200 metres dash.

QUEEN WORTHY WINS BIG STAKE

DETROIT, Mich., July 25.—In one of the greatest races in the history of the $10,000 M. and M. stake, the bay mare Queen Worthy, driven by Tom Murphy, won that classic event after a five-heat battle.

The track was very heavy from a hard rain, which resulted in comparatively slow time, but the bitterness of the contest can be judged from the fact that the first four heats were won by four different horses.

There was a decision by the judges in the first heat which did not please all the crowd, Queen Worthy being placed over The Wanderer.

The feature of the racing card for today is the free-for-all pace, in which Vernon McKinney, Evelyn W., Ross K., and four other fast ones will start.

Queen Worthy was the favorite in the pooling on the M. and M., selling for $200, her stable companion Dictator Todd, bringing $100; Dave Halle, $65; Dorsh Medium, $60; Bierne Holt, $50; The Wanderer, $25, and the field $25.

Murphy led all the way with Queen Worthy in the first heat. The Wanderer, getting to her in the stretch, and in a close finish appeared to have beaten the mare, but the judges ruled otherwise. Both of them tired in the stretch drive, and in the second Dave Halle just succeeded in beating Dorsh Medium.

Walter Cox got off well with Arona McKinney in the third and made every post a winning one. About this time Bierne Holt, who had been unsteady in the early miles, came to life and in a gruelling finish beat out The Wanderer.

Murphy had gone two easy heats with Queen Worthy, but he set sail in the fifth and had the track to himself at the quarter. Bierne Holt got to him in the stretch, and the pair had a terrific duel to the wire, the mare just barely getting the decision.

The winner is owned by A. H. Cosden of New York city, and this is her fourth straight victory in as many weeks. This is the first time Murphy ever drove a winner in the M. and M.

The 2:07 pace was won by the four-year-old colt Braden Direct, a favorite in the pooling, who was much the best of the field. Walter Cox continued his winning career by landing the 2:22 trot with the Connecticut mare, Mary G., who was also a favorite in the betting.

It was a day for favorites as Warner Hall, first choice over the 2:22 pacers, easily trimmed them in straight heats. The threatening weather interfered materially with the attendance, which was not up to that of former years on M. and M. day.

If You Want to Be a Pretty Girl—

Pay Strict Attention to the Care of Your Feet, Says Elsie Hamilton

By ELSIE HAMILTON

MOST women who start out to beautify themselves begin with their complexion.

Then they get busy with their hair, and after that they are ready for the dressmaker and the milliner. I think one ought to begin with one's feet.

No girl ever feels that she is well dressed until she is well shod.

If your hat is left over from last year, or your gown is not in style, you can make up for these shortcomings by your animated face and smile, but it takes an absolute genius to distract people's attention from downtrodden shoes, or badly blacked pumps, and a hole in one's stocking would upset even the president of the United Women's Clubs of the world.

MISS ELSIE HAMILTON.
(Of Ziegfeld's "Winsome Widow" Co.)

Beside the looks of one's feet, there is one more important question of the feeling of them.

People who can be amiable when their feet are tired and uncomfortable deserve halos. Probably, if we knew it, most of the bad temper that shows itself, especially in crowds at the ferries and stations and at theatres, is due to people having to hurry along on aching feet.

If you want to preserve your beauty, your looks and your disposition, keep your feet comfortable.

White Stockings

The white stocking craze has done a lot to ease aching feet, and there's nothing so comfortable as a nice, clean pair of white stockings and a fresh pair of shoes and slippers. Stockings ought really to be changed twice a day, and the girl who hates to darn will find that this saves her a great deal of work. Changing stockings, like changing your shoes, brings the wear and the rub on another part of the foot, and consequently saves the stockings.

My hobby is shoes and stockings, and as long as my feet look all right I feel that I can face the world with calmness.

If you want to know how sensitive people are about the way they are shod, sit in a street car and gaze fixedly at the feet of the woman opposite you. She will get so uncomfortable that ten to one you can make her get up and leave the car, because she is quite sure she has a hole in her stocking or something is the matter with her shoes. The same applies to men, though on the whole, men are more particular about their shoes than women are, and you seldom see a man in very moderate circumstances whose shoes aren't nicely polished, while lots of women overlook this part of their toilet.

If you are a dancer or have to stand on your feet for a long time every day, you must realize how important it is to keep them in good condition. They ought to be bathed every day, and if you come home tired and want to freshen up quickly a foot bath in warm water with a handful of salt in it will do you more good than a nap. Many people's feet hurt them because they are never properly dried. If the stocking is put on while the foot is still damp, it is likely to make the feet very tender, and unless one takes the trouble to dry the toes separately, the best thing to do is to dust the foot with foot powder or talcum powder.

A Popular Complaint

Many of the girls in companies in which I have played have complained so of fatigue from standing and walking, especially during rehearsals, and very often this was entirely due to flattening of the arch of the foot. If you have pains in the calf of the leg or get very tired from standing and feel as if your feet were made of lead, you are probably flattening the arch, and if you cannot get shoes made so that they will hold the arch up, wear the soles which come on the inside of the shoes and which are made to correct this trouble.

When your feet are very tired and the skin aches, as it often seems to, rub the soles of your feet with vinegar or with lemon juice after bathing. I know of one beauty shop where the customers' feet are massaged before face massage is given, and it's an awfully good idea, not only because it promotes circulation and all that, but because it is so restful. This beauty doctor said that more wrinkles come from foot troubles than from financial worries, and I guess she must be right, for if you ever had seen the pained-looking faces of the girls with the aching feet you could be sure they are making real wrinkles in their faces, lines that won't come out on salary day.

Lots of girls get stockings that are too short or too narrow, on the pleasing theory that they make their feet smaller, but they only curl the toes over, cramp the joints and push the toes together. If you get a foot encased in a small stocking and then put it in a shoe one size too narrow or too short you have a fine idea of what slow torture is. My shoemaker tells me that women's ankles are growing bigger because they are wearing pumps. Pumps throw the foot out of gear somehow, and the weight is badly balanced and the ankle bone enlarges. If you like a high heel (I'm one of the people who do) be sure and get your shoes wide enough at the toes. Of course no shoe should be more than an inch and a half in the heel, but a great many people don't find sensible flat shoes at all comfortable.

A Great Trouble.

Girls have had so much trouble keeping their pumps on for the last couple of years since pumps have been so fashionable that the whole way they walk is changed. Girls have to waddle a little to keep the pumps from falling off—that is the trouble with their walk. You can't walk well or look well if your shoes hurt you or if you have to make an effort to keep them on.

Cramping the toes to keep ones pumps on also makes the feet ache, that causes wrinkles and ugly looks. So if you want to be pretty get good understandings.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

WHAT do you think little Bobbie ought to study this Summer wile he is having his vacashun? sed ma to Pa last nite. You remember how I asked him to go down to the office & be a office boy, sed ma, & how you loffed at me & toald me that yure idea of beeing no worker was beeing a office boy. So I thought maybe that it wud be kind of nice for Bobbie to study law this Summer. You know that luvly woman, Missus Blackstone, that was up to the house last nite. Her husband is a lawyer & she toald me that he made enuff muny to go to Europe every year.

You doant say so, sed Pa. Dear me, Pa sed, that is singular. I knew a lawyer onst, Pa sed, that made enuff munny to go to the South Sea Islands & stay there. I doant reemember jest how he got the munny, sed Pa, but he was certainly no piker, I think he got away with four or five hundred thousand dollars.

You are too fresh, sed Ma. I doant mean that kind of munny. I mean munny that is earned by honest lawyers, by the sweat of thare client's brows. Why doant you let littel Bobbie go & study law with Missus Blackstone's husband?

He can if he wants to, sed Pa. If he wants to spend these hot days lerning about the statute in such case made & provided, he can do it. If he wud like to stop going in swimming at the old swimming hole & lern to draw up a foreclosure complaint in wich a widow and her nine children is the ten defendants, Pa sed, he can go rite down to Blackstone's offis tomorrow.

But you must remember, sed Ma to Pa, that you doant know as much about lawyers as Missus Blackstone, the wife of one.

I ought to knew sumthing about lawyers, sed Pa. I get a lot of letters from them. & beesides, sed Pa, wen I was a yung boy I used to be a stenograffer in a law offis & I used to study law, too. I used to make out divorce paipers, etc, sed Pa.

I doant quite beleeve that, sed Ma.

You doant, doant you? sed Pa. Well, this is the way the divorce paipers went, State of Wisconsin, County of Wisconsin, John Dingbat plaintiff versus Marie Dingbat Defendant. The plaintiff in the above entitled ackshun, thru his attorney, alleges that both parties to the above entitled ackshun are & have been residents of the above naimed state and county for a term of ten years. The plaintiff further alleges that the defendant has been guilty of cruel and inhuman treetment to this plaintiff, such as banging him on the bean with boulders & talking all the time he is reading, all to the grate mental & fizzical anguish of this plaintiff.

Oh, keep still, sed Ma to Pa. It seems to me laitly, she sed, that you nevver cum hoam without having a awful braking out around the mouth. Cant you talk about two minnits & then let me have a few moments of conversashun? sed Ma. The question still is, sed Ma, do you want Bobby to study law? Do you want him to be a lawyer?

I doant think he wud maik enuff munny beeing a lawyer in Boston, said Pa. Colleckshuns is awful bad.

A Moving Narrative

He—You're as bad as a playful kitten in jumping at conclusions.

She—Do kittens jump at conclusions?

He—Certainly! Have you never seen kittens chase their tails?

Freaks of Fashion

The Girl with the Monocle

By OLIVETTE.

IF in passing by a jeweler's window you happen to see a gold-rimmed monocle on a jewel studded velvet ribbon, don't think that it is the last whim of fashion for the modern beau. It is intended for the belle.

A few young women began affecting monocles last Winter, and set the fashion for a style that is startling, to say the least, but which, nevertheless, has many followers.

Makes Eye Bigger

The wearing of a monocle is supposed to make the eye bigger. If you wear your monocle for a long time, providing, of course, you can keep it in your eye, you will find that the eye looks larger and is wider open than its fellow which does not support the monocle.

The reason for this is because the effort to keep the muscle in place makes one stretch the muscles around the eye, and elevate the brow while keeping the eye open as wide as possible. People are too apt to get about with half closed eyes, and many a pair of beautiful orbs lose their expression and brilliancy from the drooping, heavy folds of skin which fall over the upper eyelid. The monocle keeps this skin stretched, and it is a good eye exercise to wear one.

While silver and gun metal are the popular mountings for the monocle, the eyeglass can be worn without a rim of any kind by the person who is sufficiently skillful in keeping it in place. The main thing about it is the ribbon, which should be quite wide and of grossgrain silk or velvet, ornamented at intervals with small jewelled bars. For those who object to a monocle, the new lorgnettes are especially beautiful, and one need not have poor sight to indulge in them.

Creates an Impression.

A lorgnette creates an impression even if there is only window glass in the eyes.

The early Fall will see the introduction of a lot of mannish fashions in dress which will go exceedingly well with the single eyeglass. There is, for instance, a delightful little jacket taken from that of a Spanish bullfighter, a plain black velvet affair, cut off just above the waist, which has for its only trimming a single row of silver buttons. This little coat is worn over a plaited shirt of fine linen with a turn-down collar of the same material and a stiff little cravat of black. A wide black satin sash is tied around the waist, the long fringed edges falling at the side. The velvet jacket goes with a skirt of cloth or satin, or one of the same material.

The Robespierre collar is another of those fads which will probably be passed by the Autumn, though the vogue now is truly terrific. The high collar opens in front with a deep, pointed turnover, is made of velvet, satin or lace, and frequently of all three materials.

A great deal of attention is being paid to neckwear, and many a woman's frocks and coats are not as valuable as a single piece of lace or the combination of laces which she wears around her throat. A handsome Autumn model of black cloth has the skirt looped up at the back just below the knees, and a short train. The bodice is tight-fitting, short-waisted, with the long tight sleeves, which will be fashioned for simple frocks. The entire front of the uress is of very fine white embroidered muslin shirred at the belt, and gathered in at the throat under a white lace bow. The belt is of black satin with a huge buckle of pale yellow amber.

A STLYE THAT IS STARTLING, TO SAY THE LEAST.

These enormous buckles in silver, gilt, semi-precious or artificial stones are very much the vogue. In many of the new models the short-waisted effect is retained by the bolero jacket, while the waist line is lower than it has been in several years, and marked with one of these buckles either in front or at the back.

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

A PICTURE OF HOPE.

By FRANCIS L. GARSIDE

THE most that may be said about Daysey Mayme Appleton as an artist is that she has all the paraphernalia and the mannerisms.

Having these, genius is not essential.

Attired in an apron that would scare inspiration away, and with her hair twisted in a knot so hard the monkey wrench has been added to her toilet articles, she looked the part.

"I want to paint a picture of Hope," she mused. "I don't want the stereotyped one of a maiden sitting in a white kimono looking at a rose. I want to be original.

She soliloquized no longer, but worked with her paints with feverish energy. Then she called her father to criticise.

"Now what makes you paint such grewsome things?" he complained. "Who wants a picture of a man sitting beside a grave?"

"That isn't a grave," screamed Daysey Mayme. "That's a radish bed, and he is waiting for the radishes to come up. That is a picture of Hope."

Lysander John mumbled something about it being better to paint Hope as a woman; that men didn't know what hope is, and left the room. Daysey Mayme wiped out the radish bed and began again.

When her work was done this time the canvas showed a woman with a prophetic look in her eyes sitting on the ground. Behind her were a few rocks, a little grass, and a lot of stakes, set in the ground at regular intervals.

In one corner Daysey Mayme painted the title: "Hope As Defined in Boston."

"The woman," she explained, "gets twenty a week as a stenographer. Fifteen years ago she bought a lot in Scrub Valley, paying twelve dollars a month, and which will be paid for in nineteen years.

"Every Sunday in the Summer she goes out to Scrub Valley and sits on her lot and dreams of how the city will grow. She sees a ten-story skyscraper on the lot on the left, and a twelve-story skyscaper on the lot on the right, and she hears herself refusing seven million for her property, knowing she will get forty-two million if she holds on till next week.

"That is the modern version of Hope."

"We have to do it, Silas, to get into society," replied Mrs. Noovo.

"Well," said the old man, scratching his head, "judging from results it don't seem to be that we're gettin' into society quite so much as society is gettin' into us."

A Bachelor's Diary

He Sees Josephine Again and Invents a Lie to Make Her Jealous

By MAX.

JUNE 15.—I made a very poor man of business today. All my thoughts were of Josephine, and her very curt little message that she would see me at eight tonight.

Would I go? In as great anger as I have ever known I vowed one moment I would not. And the next moment I was looking at my watch counting the hours that intervened.

I couldn't work. I couldn't talk business with any sense, and I strayed in and out of the office in a way that finally got on my head clerk's nerves. Then I came home, only to find the children gone for their ride. And here I sat for two hours in my loneliness, dreading eight o'clock, and welcoming it. I feared what I was going to do, and the next moment feared my courage would fail, and I wouldn't do it.

I am glad, Diary, that no one will ever see what I have written in this book. I have proved myself as weak and indecisive as a woman, and fully as garrulous.

Dinner was over at last, and Miss Lee took the babies upstairs. I wondered as I watched her going up the stairs with a child clinging to each hand, how it happened that I hadn't fallen in love with a sweet, demure little girl like her. What had the fates against me that they should lead me this tormenting dance after Josephine!

I was ready at seven, but did not leave the house till a half hour later. It was raining, and I called a cab, but dismissed it twob locks from her house. I saw I had five minutes to spare, so I spent it walking around the block in the rain, as unhappy and frightened as if I had been a boy of nineteen going to make his first call on a girl.

He Arrives.

There was a light in the parlor, I noticed. I had hoped there would be none, and that she would see me alone in the little den near the door where I spent the happiest hours of my life. The door was opened by her little sister, and when I turned involuntarily toward the den, she said, "Josephine said to bring you into the parlor."

I hadn't the courage to rebel, though I heard gay laughter and many voices. The next moment I found myself facing some nine or ten young folks sitting around a big table playing cards.

Josephine arose and came toward me. I saw that she wore pale blue, but can't describe it farther. It seemed to me she floated toward me on a pale blue cloud, and that it was a very cool cloud at that. She smiled in a sweet impersonal way, and gave me her hand, permitting me to hold it for only a second. Then, after introducing me to her friends, she led the way into the back parlor where her father sat.

"You two," she said with a laugh, "will have business and politics to discuss, matters too serious for our light heads."

Then she gave me a chair, and left me sitting there!

Now what do you think of that, Diary? If I had been the preacher, or the landlord, or her grandfather, she couldn't have treated me differently! And five minutes after she had reseated herself at the table she had forgotten my existence!

Her father enjoys the sound of his own voice. I was glad of that, for he didn't expect any replies. Neither did he stop for any. He just dribbled on, touching every subject from the Mosaic laws to the last national convention. And I sat there watching Josephine, just as little boys stand in front of a bakery shop window and gaze in!

He Is Jealous

I could not hear what she said, but it was evident she was the life of the party. They laughed and screamed at her jokes, and once I saw the young man who sat next to her grab her hand. And there he sat and held it, and she let him do it. I wanted to punch his head.

I stayed until after ten.

"Oh, must you go?" said Josephine, arising and coming towards me. "We are going to have a chafing dish supper after awhile. Won't you stay for it?"

She said it in the sweetest, most cordial tones. And when I refused, it was in the tones of a particularly cross bear. Then I saw a glint of amusement in her eyes, and hastened to add, more politely, that I was leaving town next day, and had some business to attend to late that night.

"Oh, are you?" she said with the greatest indifference.

"Yes," I replied, just as indifferently. "I have decided to take the children and Miss Lee abroad."

I thought she looked a little startled. "Who," she asked, "is Miss Lee?"

"A friend of Mrs. Spencer," I replied, very indifferently, and started toward the door.

She walked down the hall with me in silence, and when she looked up to say good-night, she made such a pretty picture I wanted to grab her. I wanted, also, to tell her I had made up the story about going abroad, but I didn't. I had lied and would have to stick to it. She had called me everything else under the sun; I wouldn't give her reason for adding a certain word that means telling untruths.

I imagined she looked a little bit wistful when I added, very indifferently, "Yes, we sail tomorrow," but I gave no sign.

If it hurt her I was glad of it. If the spectre of Miss Lee made her uncomfortable, I owed her a host of spectres because of the manner in which she had treated me all evening.

Aunt Sally's Advice to Beauty Seekers

K. C. F. asks: "Will you tell me how to get my hands white and soft? They have become rough and are so dark in contrast to my arms." The method mentioned in reply to Eloise will bring the desired results; wear gloves to prevent soiling the bed linen.

D. N. A. writes: "How can I reduce a double chin? Also how get rid of crow's feet?" Use a wash lotion prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. This tightens the skin, tending to disperse wrinkles as well as flabbiness about the chin or elsewhere.

Eloise says: "My freckles are worse than ever this year, made doubly conspicuous by a pallid complexion. Is there any cure?" Ask your druggist for an ounce of mercolized wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing in the morning with warm water. As the wax gradually absorbs the lifeless cuticle, not only will the freckles vanish, but the new and younger skin which appears will have a healthy color. Probably you will need to continue treatment a week or more.—Woman's Realm.

SIMPLE FORMULAS FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY

FOR HAIR AND SCALP TROUBLES—The intense itching and burning sensation caused by an unhealthy condition of the scalp is easily corrected with a quinzoin tonic, made by adding 1 ounce quinzoin to ½ pint alcohol, then pouring in ½ pint of water. This tonic soothes and invigorates the scalp, banishes dandruff and enlivens the hair-roots. Its regular use insures a clean, healthy scalp and an abundance of long, glossy hair, rich in its natural color.

WHEN YOUR EYES SMART—Two or three drops of a plain crystos eye-tonic quickly relieve the smarting, burning sensation and soothe tired muscles. To prepare this harmless eye-tonic, dissolve 1 ounce crystos in a pint cold, clear water. This is excellent for removing dust and foreign particles and brings prompt relief when used for granulated lids. Occasionally using the crystos eye-tonic gives to the eyes a charming brilliancy and expressiveness and frequently overcomes the need for glasses.

FOR HAIRY GROWTHS—A delatone paste applied to skin for 2 or 3 minutes will remove even a stubborn growth of hair. To prepare, mix enough powdered delatone and water to cover the hairy surface. After removing the delatone, wash the skin and it will be found hairless and free from any blemish or discoloration.

GOOD FRECKLE CREAM—To banish tan, freckles and sunburn, rub plenty of almozoin cream-jelly on the skin. This inexpensive, home-made cream is very fine to protect the skin from the scorching sun and hot winds. To prepare, put 1 ounce almozoin into ¼ pint water, to which is added 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. The almozoin cream is splendid for rubbing out lines and rounding out hollows, and its use gives to a "muddy," rough skin a clearness and velvety smoothness truly charming.

WEAK, WORN BODIES—An old-fashioned tonic for restoring health and energy can be made by putting 1 ounce kardene into ½ pint alcohol, then adding ½ cupful sugar and enough hot water to make a quart. Taking a tablespoonful of this before meals gently rids the system of poisonous accumulations and repairs waste, worn tissues. It is splendid as a summer tonic and for lost appetite, as well as to clear the skin of pimples, blotches and "muddiness."

A Thrilling Mystery of Modern Times

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

GEORGE ANDERSON, a young business man, and his wife, are passing the entrance to the Hotel Clermont when they notice a man washing his hands in the snow. They enter the hotel and hear that Miss Edith Challoner, an heiress, has been mysteriously murdered. The Anderson tell of the mysterious stranger to Slater, the hotel manager, and Detective Sweetwater, who is called in on the case. A diagram of the hotel lobby shows that the murderer probably stood at the foot of a staircase leading from the musicians' gallery. The man under suspicion is Orlando Brotherson, an eccentric inventor.

PART I.—(Continued.)

BUT a bullet calls for no approach. A man at X might raise and fire his pistol without attracting any attention to himself. The music, which all acknowledged was at its full climax at this moment, would drown the noise of the explosion, and the staircase, out of view of all but the victim, afford the same means of immediate escape which it must have given of secret and unseen approach. The coatroom into which it descended communicated with the lobby very near the main entrance, and if Mr. Brotherson were the man, his sudden appearance there would thus be accounted for.

To be sure, this gentleman had not been noticed in the coatroom by the man then in charge, but if the latter had been engaged at that instant, as he often was, in hanging up or taking down a coat from the rack, a person might easily pass by him and disappear into the lobby without attracting his attention. So many people passed that way from the dining room beyond, and so many of these were tall, fine-looking and well-dressed.

It began to look bad for this man, if indeed he were the one we had seen under the street lamp and as George and I viewed the situation we felt our position to be serious enough for us severally to set down our impressions of this man before we lost our first vivid idea. If do not know what George wrote, for he sealed his words up as soon as he had finished writing, but this is what I put on paper while my memory was still fresh and my excitement unabated:

He had the look of a man of powerful intellect and determined will, who shudders while he triumphs; who outwardly washes his hands of a deed ever which he inwardly gloats. This was when he first rose from the snow.

Afterwards he had a moment of fear; plain, human, everyday fear. But this was evanescent. Before he had turned to go, he showed the self-possession of one who feels himself so secure or is so well satisfied with himself that he is no longer conscious of other emotions.

"Poor fellow," I commented aloud, as I folded up these words; "he reckoned without you, George. By tomorrow he will be in the hands of the police."

"Poor fellow?" he repeated. "Better say 'Poor Miss Challoner!' They tell me she was one of those perfect women who reconcile even the pessimist to humanity and the age we live in. Why any one should want to kill her is a mystery; but why this man should—There! no one professes to explain it. They simply go by the facts. Tomorrow surely must bring strange revelations."

And with this sentence ringing in my mind I lay down and endeavored to sleep. But it was not till very late that rest came. The noise of passing feet, though muffled beyond their wont, roused me in spite of myself. These footsteps might be those of some late arrival, or they might be those of some wary detective intent on business far removed from the usual routine of life in this great hotel.

Recalling the Scene

I recalled the glimpse I had had of the writing-room in the early evening, and imagined it as it was now, with Miss Challoner's body removed and the incongruous flitting of strange and busy figures across its fatal floors, measuring distances and peering into corners, while hundreds slept above and about them in undisturbed repose.

Then I thought of him, the suspected and possibly guilty one. In visions over which I had little if any control I saw him in all the restlessness of a slowly dying down excitement—the surroundings strange and unknown to me, the figure not—seeking for quiet; facing the past; facing the future; knowing, perhaps, for the first time in life what it was to long for crime and remorse to murder sleep. I could not think of him as lying still—slumbering like the rest of mankind, in the hope and expectation of a busy morrow. Crime perpetrated looms so large in the soul, and this man had a soul as big as his body; of that I was assured. That its instincts were cruel and inherently evil did not lessen its capacity for suffering. And he was suffering now; I could not doubt it, remembering the lovely face and fragrant memory of the noble woman he had under some unknown impulse sent to an unmerited doom.

At last I slept, but it was only to rouse again with the same quick realization of my surroundings which I had experienced on my recovery from my fainting fit of hours before. Someone had stopped at our door before hurrying by down the hall.

ANDERSON GETS ANOTHER CLEW.

"I saw George casting furtive glances at a table behind me."
(Posed by Miss Ferie Barti and Vincent Sullivan of "The Rosemaid" Company.)

Who was that someone? I rose on my elbow, and endeavored to peer through the dark. Of course, I could see nothing. But when I woke a second time, there was enough light in the room, early as it undoubtedly was, for me to detect a letter lying on the carpet just inside the door.

Instantly I was on my feet. Catching the letter up, I carried it to the window. Our two names were on it—Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson; the writing, Mr. Slater's.

I glanced over at George. He was sleeping peacefully. It was too early to wake him, but I could not lay that letter down unread; was not my name on it? Tearing it open, I devoured its contents—the exclamation I made on reading it, waking George.

The writing was in Mr. Slater's hand, and the words were:

I must request, at the instance of Coroner Heath and such of the police as listened to your adventure, that you make no further mention of what you saw in the street under our windows last night. The doctors find no bullet in the wound. This clears Mr. Brotherson.

Sweet Little Miss Clarke

WHEN we took our seats at the breakfast table it was with the feeling of being no longer looked upon as connected in any way with this case. Yet our interest in it was, if anything, increased, and when I saw George casting furtive glances at a certain table behind me, I leaned over and asked him the reason, being sure that the people whose faces I saw reflected in the mirror directly before us had something to do with the great matter then engrossing us.

His answer conveyed the somewhat exciting information that the four persons seated in my rear were the same four who had been reading at the round table in the mezzanine at the time of Miss Challoners' death.

Instantly they absorbed all my attention, though I dared not give them a direct look and continued to observe them only in the glass.

"Is it one family?" I asked.

"Yes, and a very respectable one, Translenta, of course, but very well known in Denver. The lady is not the mother of the boys, but their aunt. The boys belong to the gentleman, who is a widower."

"Their word ought to be good.

George nodded.

"The boys look wide-awake enough if the father does not. As for the aunt, she is sweetness itself. Do they still insist that Miss Challoner was the only person in the room with them at this time?"

"They did last night. I don't know how they will meet this statement of the doctors."

"George!"

He leaned nearer.

"Have you ever thought that she might have been a suicide? That she stabbed herself?"

"No, for in that case a weapon would have been found."

"And are you sure that none was?"

"Positive. Such a fact could not have been kept quiet. If a weapon had been picked up there would be no mystery, and no necessity for further police investigation."

"And the detectives are still here?"

"I just saw one."

"George!"

Again his head came nearer.

"Have they searched the lobby? I believe she had a weapon."

"Laura!"

The Injustice of Long Waiting

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

"NO sooner met, but they looked; no sooner looked, but they loved; no sooner loved, but they sighed; no sooner sighed, but they asked one another the reason."

And having asked one another the reason, it was learned that he wanted her, and she wanted him. Hence they became engaged with no more prospect of marriage than if they had been born yesterday.

"I can't afford to marry now," he says. "We will wait till you can," says she hopefully.

Then begins a period of waiting that is happy and hopeful in the beginning; more discouraging and irksome if prolonged, and a great injustice to the girl when the years pass and the man is still not ready.

His income is small. In an endeavor to treat her as well as other lovers treat their sweethearts, he spends on flowers and chocolates money that should be laid aside for chairs and steamers.

One would not have his gifts different. A lover who called on his girl bearing a meat platter in his hand would be laughed out of the Land of Romance. That would be fatal to his chances.

Tradition Demands Bonbons

This is unfortunate, but it is true. They are saving money to buy such prosaic things as meat platters, but tradition demands that he spend that money on bonbons and bouquets on the way.

For this reason the ambition for which both are struggling is pushed farther and farther ahead, and he grows impatient with the course of self-denial he has had to map out. And she sees other girls marry who have not been engaged as long as she, and feels cheated.

Things reach the stage where he would break the engagement were it not for the fear his friends may think she has grown tired of him.

And she would break it, but fears her friends would say he has grown tired of her.

So they hold on, and sometimes the engagement that has lasted as long as five years ends in a marriage, and sometimes it doesn't.

Sometimes it is a tragedy in either case. For there are unpleasant comments when a couple who have been inseparable lovers for five or six years no longer appear together. In that time they have given each other confidences which they would give much to recall.

And sometimes it is a tragedy if they marry, because the sweetness of companionship has all been drained off in a drearily long engagement.

It happens occasionally that the man and woman who are waiting are wise beyond their years, and their prolonged engagement knows no fretting, no complaining, no diminution of faith, no cooling of love.

The Fetters of Engagement

Such an engagement is ideal, and the marriage is the same. But there are not many so happily conducted, nor with such happy results.

A long engagement binds with fetters that are silken at first, but that scratch and tear and bruise and wound in the end. It is something to be avoided unless the lover and his sweetheart have a wisdom beyond their years.

It is not just to the girl. The girl who has been engaged to a man two or three years finds herself in a very neglected and unhappy position when that engagement is broken.

He has no trouble getting another girl. That is a difficulty no man ever has. But she is less fortunate in getting another lover.

She has spent the best part of her youth in waiting for him. Time is so much kinder to a man that the years which took away from her attractiveness added to his.

So I say that an engagement longer than a year is not fair to a girl. Unless a man is in position to marry within that time he should be less hasty about winning a girl's love and demanding her promise.

Effective Home Remedy for Tuberculosis

It is a serious matter when the lungs are affected. A trip away or to a sanitorium is expensive, and involves separation from home. Some are benefited, but none can safely return. Eckman's Alterative is effective—no leaving home necessary. For example:

Gentlemen: In the Fall of 1905, I contracted a very severe cold, which settled on my lungs, and my physician told me I must go to California immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alterative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week in October, began to improve and the first week in January, 1906, I resumed my regular occupation, being fully restored to health. It is now six years since my cure has been effected, and I cannot praise Eckman's Alterative too highly.

MILL STRIKE UP TO A. F. OF L.

NEW BEDFORD, July 25.—The mill strike is now up to the A. F. of L. to carry through alone. On its action depends the success of the struggle, for the I. W. W. has voted to quit the strike.

Today comes the showdown as to the actual strength of the I. W. W. The A. F. of L. claims that there are not enough members to make any difference whether they quit the strike or not. The I. W. W. claims its strength is sufficient to break the strike.

But whether or not the mill owners will take back the I. W. W. members is a matter of conjecture. According to common report they have vowed their hostility to the socialistic organization.

Hundreds of the I. W. W. men and women tried to obtain work today at the Butler, Whitman, Nield, Nashaweena, Taber and Soule Mills, that are running. These mills are running to their fullest capacity, however, and there is no room for new men.

The I. W. W. fixes its strength at 5,421 in giving out its vote on the plan to return as 5,336 for and 85 against.

By J. C. KERRISON.

A car every two minutes will be produced by the Ford Motor Car Company in the season of 1913. There will be 200,000 cars manufactured by this company during the year. To build 200,000 cars in a year brings out a production of slightly less than a car every two minutes. In a working year of fifty-two weeks, each week means 3,845 cars. This calls for 640 cars in each of the six days of the week. This daily production, divided by the full twenty-four hours that the factory will be run, makes an hourly production of about twenty-seven cars. In other words, every minute sees 45 per cent. of a car produced.

This will give you some idea of the popularity of the Ford cars. Last year when Mr. Ford announced that he would turn out 75,000 machines there were a good many "doubting Thomases," yet, as a matter of fact, nearly 90,000 cars were built.

The Buick Motor Company has sold its Jackson plant to the Imperial Automobile Company. This gives the Imperial two factories in Jackson. The six-cylinder, 60-horse power car is one of the 1913 lines.

John DePalma, a brother of Ralph DePalma, is now in the limelight as a racing driver. He started in the Scranton track meet with the same Mercer in which his brother campaigned last season. Saturday he will drive at Wilkesbarre.

As a result of the increased popularity of the Cole, Messrs. G. E. & H. J. Habich Company, Massachusetts distributors for the Cole, have found it necessary to increase their sales force. Edgar A. Ordway, widely known in automobile circles, has recently associated himself with this firm.

By virtue of his fine performances in winning 29 out of a possible 37 points in the national championship motorcycle events at Columbus O., July 17 to 21, John Constant of Broklyn, N. Y., won the Bosch Magneto Company's 1912 amateur trophy and the title amateur champion of America.

10,000 EAGLES AT NEW BEDFORD

NEW BEDFORD, July 25.—New Bedford is en fete today, and its citizens are busy extending a rousing welcome to the 10,000 Eagles who are here to participate in the ninth annual field day of the New England Association of the order.

The New Bedford Aerie of Eagles has entered into and carried out successfully many ambitious undertakings, but none of them can approach the present celebration in magnitude. The principal streets are ablaze with patriotic emblems and bunting. The Parker House and the Bristol House, which are the headquarters, respectively, of the Providence and Boston aeries, are gaily bedecked and the lobbies are teeming with Eagles.

The celebration proper began last night with a degree contest in Odd Fellows Hall. Among the teams were Woonsocket, Bristol, R. I., Providence, Chelsea, North Adams, Chicopee Falls, Lawrence, Brockton, Fall River, Taunton, Newburyport and Watertown.

The big feature of today's celebration was the parade. Many innovations in the way of uniforms were revealed. Ex-Senator William J. Bullock was chief marshal. His staff included:

Assistant marshal, Walter H. Peirce; division commanders, George H. Power, Hugh Donaghy, Anthony Lima, Jr. Visiting staff, George F. Chase, Woonsocket; John A. Kelley, Brockton; Charles C. Hanger, Warren, R. I.; M. F. Lane, Lawrence; Bernard J. Flanagan, Fall River; John E. Rioux, North Attleboro. Local aids, John Whiteside, Arthur W. Taber, Patrick McQuade, William Myse, Robert McAlpine, Paul St. Lawrence, John F. Lemare, Michael Holorhan, John Nicholson, William Frawley, 3d, Charles A. McAvoy, John A. Cobb.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

Boston Market Stays Apathetic, N.Y. Prices Higher

By W. H. ROSS.

W. H. ROSS

STATE STREET, July 25.—Midday—The Boston market opened quiet without any demand to speak of for stocks and was irregular as to prices during early trading. As regards the copper list, before noon Shannon, Lake, Amalgamated and Osceola were among issues to sell a little higher. Isle Royale and Arizona Commercial were a shade lower.

General Electric was strong. There was a slight gain for American Woolen preferred.

Copper Metal and Its Market.

Speculation in copper warrants in London is having the effect on this side of the water of causing uncertainty in the minds of consumers as to what they will have to pay for the metal in the near future. Selling agents and producers say that speculation in the British capital does not alter facts and that the price they ask is based on conditions that bears cannot change. The renewed demand for copper seems to have died out. The big sellers stand firm for 17⅝ cents a pound. The market seems to be bare of spot and most big consumers are not in need of any.

When the bear campaign in London is over big consumers will probably have a more settled opinion as to the real trend of prices and will seek the supplies which they will require a few months hence. They may have to buy more than is asked now. Statistics which are as reliable as figures for any market do not point towards cheaper copper for a long time.

War Scare in England.

The editor of the London Statist cables Hearst newspapers:

"Fears of an outbreak of war between Great Britain and Germany have become acute and are unsettling security markets here and on the Continent. Apprehensions over the danger of hostilities are the principal cause of the continued fall in consols to new low levels every day or two, and of the decline in German government securities as well as the bonds of practically every great European government. I fear, along with others, that war will be inevitable if Germany continues building battleships at the rate proposed. Uneasiness over the peace of Europe is heightened by the naval construction activities of Italy and Austria. The condition of Turkey is aggravating present apprehensions. Still it is hoped that the fact that the preparations of Germany, Austria and Italy—the famous 'Triple Alliance'—incomplete at this stage, will prevent an early outbreak of war."

The Boston News Bureau says: "We think it pertinent to say that at the present time there is less prospect of war between England and Germany than there has been for the past thirty years. Germany has today less ability to go to war than she has had in a generation. She is overexpanded and her industries are founded upon an export trade in which there is very little profit. Forty per cent. of the copper that Germany imports she exports in manufactured shapes, but her exports are under the sharpest kind of competition. The real situation today is that Germany is expanding a navy for the foreign commerce which supports her industries and employs her labor at low wages, but in which there is no great profit. It is figured, in the realms of finance, that after Germany pays her high food bill, and liberal interest rates upon her borrowed capital, she has not much on the credit side of the balance sheet; and this does not take account of her increasing war budget and naval taxes. If Germany had the moral courage to do it, her best course would be to dismantle her naval ships and go in for more commerce and more profits."

General Electric the Feature.

General Electric was the most prominent feature of the New York market at the opening, advancing 3¼ points to 188½. The gain was attributed to market gossip that the company is preparing to cut another melon for stockholders. Westinghouse was strong in sympathy. It gained 1 point, crossing 82. Consolidated Gas also moved up with a gain of 1⅛, going to 145⅝. This was explained on the ground that the directors expected to declare an extra dividend at their meeting this afternoon. Texas Company was another strong early feature, advancing over a point to 125½. National Biscuit was again without support and fell 2⅝ points to 133⅛ in early transactions. Most of the other important issues scored fractional gains. Steel common was up ⅛, Pennsylvania and B. & O. gained ¼ each. Reading was up ½, while Union Pacific was off ⅛.

The curb market opened dull and easy.

American railroad shares were steady in the London market, and showed strength. Canadian Pacific was strong on its earnings report, but the Grand Trunk issues were heavy. The copper metal market there opened firm, with spot and futures each 12s. 6d. higher.

Financial News in Brief.

Wall street has heard that the General Electric Company may declare a stock dividend of 25 per cent., and it is also looking for a 3 per cent. Westinghouse dividend this Fall.

The Emerson-Brantingham Company, the new $50,000,000 rival of International Harvester, has bought the Columbus, Ind., plant of Reeves & Co. and its sixteen branches in the United States and Canada for $2,500,000. Reeves & Co. make threshing machinery.

Steel consumers are now paying as high as $5 a ton premium for prompt delivery.

The dividend problem confronting Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul directors is whether the next half yearly disbursement should be based on the earnings of the period it covers or upon the outlook for the last half of 1912.

The number of men needed in the American and Canadian northwest the coming Autumn to harvest crops is estimated at anywhere between 100,000 and 150,000. All accounts of the situation agree that it will be difficult for farmers to get all the help they need. They are offering $3 a day.

National Biscuit is now paying dividends at the rate of 7 per cent. annually, and last year its shareholders got 2 per cent. extra. Now it is rumored that there will be no extra disbursement in 1912, and this is one reason advanced for its market decline.

The United States Department of Agriculture has received a report from abroad that wheat production in Europe will be 4 per cent. less than last year's crop there.

During the last four years the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe has built 503 miles of new lines in Texas, and Chairman Allison Mayfield of the Railroad Commission in that State points out that fact as evidence that railroad laws there are not retarding its development as much as the road's president believes.

While J. Pierpont Morgan was voyaging to New York on the Olympic, he saw the "turkey trot" danced for the first time. "My gracious," said the eminent financier, "I'd like to dance like that."

The Senate Finance Committee will divide on strictly party lines on the House resolution giving the Pujo probers the right to get all the information they want from national banks. Democrats are for the measure and Republicans against it.

The Bank of England weekly report shows the proportion of reserve to liabilities is now 50.40 per cent., against 51 per cent. last week, and compares with an advance from 50.40 to 54.50 per cent. [illegible]

The purpose of the British-Canadian Land Settlement Corporation, Ltd., with a capital of $2,000,000 and a head office at Winnipeg, is to get emigrants from the British Isles to settle in the western part of the Dominion.

During the first half of this year the total yield of the principal Australian copper mines was 29,764,390 pounds, as compared with 32,942,379 in the corresponding period last year.

New Arizona Commercial securities are being prepared for delivery in exchange for trust company receipts for the bonds and stock of the old company and reorganization is completed and no fear of legal technicalities will check development of the property by the new corporation.

Total gross earnings of twelve leading railroads of the United States for May were $74,815,262, which compares with $72,493,510 in April and $78,061,243 last year. May was 29 per cent. in excess of the ten-year average, compared with 28 per cent. in April and 35 per cent. last year. The railroads showing the largest gain in gross for May over April were Pennsylvania, Reading, Baltimore & Ohio and Illinois Central, while St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Louisville & Nashville and Southern Railway all showed a decrease from April's earnings.

Thompson, Towle & Co. understand it is planned to list shares of the Great Western Sugar Company on the New York Stock Exchange. The company owns eight beet sugar plants, costing from $800,000 to $1,000,000 each, and is building additional plants. It also has 700,000 acres of farm lands under cultivation with an additional 400,000 acres being rapidly developed. It has $9,000,000 cash for its working needs, and its future is considered particularly promising.

FAIL TO IDENTIFY IN LEAVITT CASE

WORCESTER, July 25.—Inspired, the police say, by fear of vengeance, Mrs. Anna Crowninshield of Washington street, an eye witness to the murder of Albert D. Leavitt of Boston in Belknap street last Sunday, refused to identify two men brought in by the police, as members of the gang that slew Leavitt. The men were James Brophy and John Linnehan.

The detectives of the department put in their time trying to round up the members of the Gold street gang thought to have been concerned in the killing.

The body of Leavitt was taken to Tilton, N. H., and funeral services were held at the home of his brother-in-law, Charles Connolly.

LAWYERS RENEW FIGHT ON LEWIS

WASHINGTON, July 25.—A fight that threatens to split the American Bar Association into sectional factions is expected to develop over the membership of Assistant United States Attorney-General William H. Lewis of Boston, when the association meets at Milwaukee, August 27.

Mr. Lewis was proposed for membership by the Boston council of the association. He was admitted. Later, Southern members protested because Mr. Lewis was a negro and the executive committee last January adopted a resolution expelling Mr. Lewis from membership. Attorney-General Wickersham leads the fight for his assistant. The leaders of the opposition are George Whitlock of Baltimore and Edward Farrar of New Orleans.

Soon after the executive committee's action, Mr. Wickersham made a post card canvass of members of the association. The result, he declares, was two to one in favor of Mr. Lewis.

Best Interior Player-Piano
—THE—Autopiano

The Autopiano unites in a single instrument a high-class upright piano, which can be played with the hands in the usual way, and the player piano, which is played with the perforated music roll (the new way), thus enabling anyone, young or old, to render in a finished manner any musical composition. The construction of the Autopiano is most durable, and [illegible] who use rubber tubes in construction, the Autopiano lead tubes are used and are indestructible. Its sweet tone is unequalled.

THE PRE-EMINENCE OF THE AUTOPIANO AT THE VATICAN
Is confirmed by the recent bestowal of the ORDER OF ST. SYLVESTER
—by—

HIS HOLINESS POPE PIUS X

Upon Mr. Charles Kohler as founder of the Autopiano Company. The order of St. Sylvester is one of the three highest orders of Papal Knighthood that may be conferred upon laymen. In conferring the order the decree states that His Holiness bestows this special honor and dignity in recognition of the splendid ingenuity and skill displayed in producing a player piano of such qualities as the Autopiano. Following, as this does, the gold medal awards of His Holiness to the Autopiano Company in 1908, the position of pre-eminence that THE AUTOPIANO occupies in the Vatican is unmistakable.

A great many people have in their homes what is practically a "Dead piano." No one knows how to play it—son and daughter who used to play and entertain the family have married and the piano is now merely an expensive ornament. Now is the time to get an Autopiano—put in the music roll, start it—that's all you have to do.

With play for you (without any knowledge of music or playing on your part) the world's greatest music, new and old. All opera and popular music prepared for the Autopiano as soon as published.

WE WILL TAKE YOUR PIANO IN EXCHANGE AND ALLOW YOU FULL VALUE

Let Us Be Quick to Praise

The New Haven Management Announces That It Will Keep a Promise Made to the Recent Legislature. The Boston & Providence Will Be Four-Tracked and Electrified. Let the Good Work Go On!

The announcement by the New Haven Railroad of its vote to electrify the Boston & Providence Railroad will be received with the keenest pleasure by all New England as an indication that the New Haven management SERIOUSLY INTENDS TO CARRY OUT ITS PROMISES TO NEW ENGLAND LEGISLATURES.

According to the announcement, the work of electrifying the Boston & Providence MAY be started this Fall. It COULD be completed before the close of 1913.

Boston could scarcely be made happier by the great New England Railway system except by the substitution of the word WILL for the word MAY, and again for the word COULD. It WILL be started this Fall. It WILL be completed before the close of 1913.

But let us not be UNREASONABLE.

The cost of this EPOCHAL undertaking—the New Haven will not only electrify but four-track the line—will be IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD of $7,000,000.

Fully as important as the announcement of the electrification and four-tracking, to OUR way of thinking, is the implied fact that the New Haven management realizes, however tardily, that the New England lines CANNOT PROSPER WITHOUT THE GOOD WILL OF THE TERRITORY THEY SERVE.

The AMERICAN offers Mr. Mellen and Mr. Byrnes and ALL THEIR ASSOCIATES its heartiest congratulations.

Let the good work go on.

The Boston Park Board Appears to be Enjoying a Fine Snooze

Our Advice to the Gentlemen, in the Matter of a Water-front Playground for the Little People of East Boston, Is to Come Down Before the Fireworks Begin—And We Think They Will

Fifty years from now it will be difficult for the Bostonian of that day to understand how the municipal statesmen of OUR time could have been so slow in the matter of a water-front playground for the young folks of East Boston.

THERE OUGHT TO BE PLAYGROUNDS AND PARKS WHERE THE BABIES ARE.

Visitors from Kansas City, St Louis and Omaha go into ecstacies over our metropolitan park system and our State boulevards, as WELL THEY MAY. They go home and write pieces about these parks and these boulevards to the local newspapers. They say Boston has the finest parks, the best playgrounds and the best boulevards they have seen.

What would our visitors say about us if they knew the way the city was treating the CHILDREN OF EAST BOSTON?

All of us can imagine what they would say. We blush when we think of it.

Somebody in high official station should grab the big stick of persistence and go after the Boston Board of Park Commissioners.

The Park Commissioners were asked by the City Council on May 13—MORE THAN TWO MONTHS AGO—for the estimated cost of giving the young people of East Boston a WATER-FRONT PLAYGROUND. They have now been asked—thanks to Councillor Buckley of Charlestown—to HURRY THAT ESTIMATE ALONG AT ONCE.

Twelve hundred citizens of East Boston have added their petition to the request of the City Council.

The children of East Boston ought to have this playground. They OUGHT TO HAVE IT AT ONCE and if the twelve hundred citizens who joined in this petition stick together, for the good of their district and in the name of its children, THEY WILL GET IT.

The AMERICAN advises the Park Commissioners to come down before the fireworks start.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

THE "SWAT THE FLY" CRUSADE

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I want to express my appreciation of your efforts to check the spread of disease by the deadly house fly. Also I want to make a suggestion.

Why not enlist the housewives of Boston in a crusade against one of the greatest evils of to-day? If a woman goes to a butcher shop and finds flies swarming about the meat, let her walk out without making a purchase. That will make the butcher sit up and take notice and he will probably be very busy for some time to come cleaning the flies out of his shop. The same applies to the baker shop, the grocery, etc.

I believe that one of the greatest breeding places for flies is the soda water fountain. The sweet syrups seem to attract them and they swarm there in thousands. Seldom, if ever, is any attempt made to drive them away.

In the home, of course, a relentless war should be waged. Every window should be screened and as fast as the flies make their appearance, they should be driven out or killed. In previous years I was greatly annoyed by the little pests, but this year, thanks to your editorials, there is not a single fly in my home.

Success to your "Swat the Fly" crusade.

The Massachusetts S. P. C. A. having greatly widened its work the past two years, and in addition having undertaken the establishment of many Summer watering stations for horses, needs the generous support of its friends just now. During six of the warmest days of this month it watered 24,700 horses, a total of 113,820 so far this Summer. Any contribution for this purpose or for the work of the society may be sent to Henry B. Hill, Treasurer, No. 45 Milk street, Boston.

Desperate Desmond——and Three Heroes

How Teddy foils a mean attack on his B. Moose.

1—AWAY! Prohib rides away with Rosamond.

2—HE'S OFF! Teddy dashes off on his B. Moose, while Taft and Wilson disentangle themselves.

3—THE ATTACK. Prohib, Wilson and Taft resolve to cut off B. Moose's antlers, thus spoiling him for Chicago.

4—ALERT. But Teddy is alert. He's making a double end B. Moose to baffle the plotters.

5—TO WORK. The three plotters see the antlers before them. They consider not the animal is apparently facing from the feed box.

6—KICKED OVER. Whang! When the false head is hit, B. Moose lashes out and kicks over the conspirators. Their fate will be shown tomorrow.

The Education of the Voter

No. II—The Questioning Citizen

The Well-Paid Man and the Well-Equipped Citizen Are in the Same Class. They Both Get There by Asking Questions

By THOMAS TAPPER

I.

A COLLEGE president, speaking about the well-paid man, said:

"The man who is wanted is the man who can DO the thing. Some may guess at it; some may have read about it. This man can DO it. He has learned his lesson. He kept doggedly at it. He paid the price. He saw things far off that others did not see. Therefore the world now wants him. Therefore he has his chance.

"But the man who achieves is not simply the man who CAN do the thing. He is the man who WILL do it. His mind is not on the pay. His eye is not on the clock. He is not counting the difficulties. His business is to see the thing done. He stops when he has finished.

"And the man who achieves does not need to hunt for a job. The job hunts him. And life's best fun is its work well done."

The well-paid man and the well-equipped citizen are in the same class. They both get there by asking questions. If things as they are seem wrong, they do not worship things as they are, but they begin to examine into them.

The United States government is, in some things, a type of Questioning Citizen-body. In 1911, the questions of the Post Office Department addressed to gentlemen who sell securities by mail to the public drew forth the information that practically worthless goods were exchanged for seventy-seven millions of good money. The government was able to put some of these promoters in jail.

But it did not get them all.

The New York American, quoting Mr. B. F. Harris, president of the Illinois Bankers' Association, states that the people of the United States (citizens and voters with rights and privileges) are annually swindled out of three hundred million dollars through the sale of fake securities of one kind and another.

In other words, it costs the citizens one million dollars a day NOT TO ASK QUESTIONS.

They worship on Sunday. They feel proud of the public educational system on weeks days. They read papers seven days a week. They pay promptly—a million a day.

Meanwhile, it is hard to meet bills, for wages are low. Meanwhile, the citizen finds it difficult to prosper because of the high cost of living; but, meanwhile, regularly as the day dawns, out go a million dollars to the wild-cat gentlemen who have families to support.

II.

To be a good citizen, your car must be to the ground. It is your duty to yourself and your family to know who is coming up the street—and what he wants.

No man is a good citizen who does not demand of humanity what he can justly have. There is no statement in the Federal or State Constitution that you shall be prosperous. But there is a distinct statement that you MAY be. Now the lack of prosperity results from two causes:

1. Political conditions produced by men in office.

2. Personal conditions produced by yourself at home.

As a rule, the lack of prosperity is invariably a personal matter. This means that you are, to a great extent, responsible for what you get or do not get.

The main thing, however, is to keep awake. Do things as they are seem to put you out of the race? Ask questions, and find out where the fault lies.

Are you spending all you earn on necessities? Ask questions; perhaps you can spend more wisely if you examine your own methods.

Has a gent knocked at the front door, a gent with securities sticking out of his pocket? Ask questions. It is costing a Million Dollars a day not to do it.

Several conditions make prosperity hard to secure. I mean the prosperity that you yourself enjoy in your own family. Generally we blame the trusts, the shortage of crops, the party in power, and so on. Well, they may deserve it, or they may not. But there is no doubt about prosperity being influenced by three things:

1. The Easy Mark side of human nature that pays Three Hundred Million Dollars a year for nothing.

2. The willingness we all show in paying taxes—not to the tax assessor, but to the saloon keeper, the slot-machine man, the cigarette maker, and all the rest of that jovial company.

3. The refusal to be introduced to Frugality, Self-denial and Economy, and the insane ambition to run up and down the streets of the town with Prodigality, Waste and Extravagance.

When the spellbinder stands on top of a barrel and tells you that the government is the cause of the high cost of living and the low rate of wages—ASK QUESTIONS.

Before you adjudge the government guilty of the crime, try your own case.

It may flatter your vanity and raise your expectations to be told that if you had your rights you would be better off.

Well, you would be better off if you had your rights. And you can have them by asking questions OF YOURSELF.

It is largely up to you.

NO one interested in the welfare of this State and of New England can afford to miss next Sunday's AMERICAN, because:

Governor Eugene Noble Foss of Massachusetts will be the editor, and because:

What he will have to say editorially will concern the most vital problems affecting this section of the country, problems which affect you and your neighbors, and because:

Next Sunday's AMERICAN will be the third in the series of "Governors' Editions," and you need every one of them.

And don't forget that:

Governor Aram J. Pothier of Rhode Island will be the editor of the Sunday AMERICAN of August 4 and that Governor John A. Mead of Vermont will be the editor of the issue of Sunday, August 11.

Better tell your newsdealer today that you want them all and that you want him to see that you get them.
